SPAIN'S ROYAL DEAD.

MADRID, April 10.—The Official Messenger, which appears today with black borders, merely announces the death of former Queen Isabella, and makes no statement regarding the funeral arrangements. King Alfonso desires that every honor should be paid to the dead, but the remains will not be met at the frontier by the members of the Cabinet, and Minister of Justice Toca alone will go to Escoria, which is twenty-six miles northwest of Madrid, for the interment. Requiem masses will be said simultaneously at Madrid and Barcelona, April 12. The Spanish court will go into mourning for one year.

PINKERTON COCK FIGHT.

Thirty-two Prisoners, Most of Them Wealthy, Taken from the Stable.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 10—Today the police interrupted a cock fight in the private stable of Robert A. Pinkerton, the detective, in Brooklyn, and took 32 prisoners, among whom were several in evening clothes. Twenty-five game cocks also were captured, and six dead birds were found in the stable.

Most of the prisoners, a majority of whom are wealthy, were locked up. At the Pinkerton house it was said that Pinkerton was in California.

FOURTH DIVISION LANDING IN KOREA.

First Division Army Headquarters Will Soon Move Beyond Ping Yang.

Foreign Newspaper Correspondents Get a Chance to Travel—Trainloads of Wounded Sent to Harbin. Makaroff's Fleet Prepares for an Attack on Port Arthur—Movements of the Hostile Forces.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEOUL, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Fourth Division of the Japanese Army is landing in the north part of Korea at several points. With it goes the first batch of foreign correspondents. The majority of them have been living in Tokio for months past, and it is thought they held a sort of prescriptive claim, therefore they will accompany the first army. The weather, however, is rainy, and this batch may have some further leisure on the banks of the Yalu. The First Division army headquarters will move north of Ping Yang at an early date. Ice is moving into the main stream of the Yalu, which blocks the passage of troops.

TRAINLOADS OF WOUNDED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TIEN-TSIN, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is reported from Mukden that two trains, containing a large number of Russians who were wounded in an engagement on the Yalu, have passed through there on the way to Harbin.

NO PORT ARTHUR ATTACK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The generally anticipated attack on Port Arthur did not occur last night, although telegrams received from Grand Duke Cyril report that the enemy's ships were sighted on the horizon. It is presumed the Japanese were warned of the extra precautions which had been taken to guard against surprise. Makaroff's torpedo flotilla patrolled the open sea, while warships, with full steam up, remained outside the fortress.

MOVEMENTS OF THE HOSTILES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, April 11.—No confirmation has reached London of the various rumors, most of which came by way of Paris, of land fighting, landings by the Japanese on the Liao Tung peninsula, the capture of Japanese troops by the Russians, etc.

Dispatches from various points agree that the Russians have completely evacuated Korea, but beyond this there is little reliable news.

A Chefoo dispatch which reached London by way of Rome asserted that the Japanese squadron, with twenty steamers, was seen making for Port Arthur.

The squadron of Admiral Wirenius left Cherbourg yesterday for the Baltic.

On the occasion of Easter, the Czar conferred numerous decorations and promotions upon naval and army commanders prominent in the war.

Marquis Ito, president of the Japanese Privy Council, was given a banquet at Tokio Saturday. He announced the success of his mission in establishing cordial relations between the Japanese and Korean courts and said that at his government's request he had drawn up an elaborate report on Korean political needs.

The Japanese papers ridicule the idea of the Russian Baltic Sea squadron ever reaching the Far East, and do not believe that it will ever make the attempt.

KOUROPATKIN'S PLAN FOR CRUSHING JAPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The generally-anticipated attack on Port Arthur did not occur last night, although a telegram received from Grand Duke Cyril reports that the enemy's ships were sighted on the horizon: It is presumed that the Japanese were warned of the extra precautions which had been taken to guard against a surprise.

There was no Easter merry-making at the front. By special dispensation, the soldiers and sailors there were relieved of all religious observances on account of the necessities of the military situation. Vice-Admiral Makaroff's torpedo flotilla patrolled the open sea, while the warships, with full steam up, remained outside Port Arthur. Elsewhere throughout the theater of war, all is reported quiet.

A military official, in conversation with the Associated Press, explained why Gen. Kouropatkin's plan of campaign does not contemplate a heavy resistance of the Japanese advance at the Yalu, saying:

"Either defeat or victory in a battle there would be disadvantageous to us. If we lost, we would have to fall back through a difficult country. If we won—and I say to you that Russian strategy is based on the idea of victory and not defeat, success would be fruitless. We could not follow it up without exposing the army to too great risks. On account of the Japanese control of the sea, if we pursued the enemy into the Peninsula of Korea, we would open both flanks to a possible attack from the rear. No, the Japanese must come on to a point in the interior which, with this end in view, has been selected where we can follow up a crushing defeat to the bitter end with blow after blow and seal the fate of the campaign.

"Our plans on sea and land will converge at a time next summer when Admiral Makaroff's fleet will be relieved by the arrival of reinforcements. Then, if successful on land, we can clear the sea of the enemy, cut his communications and the Japanese in Korea and Manchuria will then be at our mercy. The world must not be impatient. The prelude to this war is not yet finished."

It is understood that, as the result of Gen. Kouropatkin's visit to Newchwang, reinforcements of 100,000 men will be sent forward from Liao Yang.

JAPAN'S CHIEF HERO.
HIROSE' CORPSE LOCATED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOIKO, April 10, [By Asiatic Cable.] 9 p.m.—The body of the Japanese officer which was found and buried at Port Arthur by the Russians is unquestionably that of Commander Hirose, who was killed March 27th in the second attempt to bottle up Port Arthur. The description of the uniform tallies with that worn by an officer of Hirose's rank, and the fact that the head was missing is a further confirmation of the belief that the body is that of the Japanese commander.

The Japanese government deeply appreciates the action of the Russians in giving the remains a military funeral, and the officers of the naval staff have requested the Associated Press to express to the world their appreciation. The fragments of Hirose's body, which were brought here April 5, will be given a public funeral, April 13. The Shinto ceremonial will be performed at the funeral. Hirose is the greatest hero of the war. After hostilities are over, it is planned to secure the remains, now interred at Port Arthur and bring them to Japan.

EASTER REJOICINGS AMONG THE RUSSIANS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—[By Atlantic Cable.] This city was today en fete and was given up to the Easter rejoicing. The long Russian feasts, which began after midnight and continued almost to daylight, were scarcely ended before the round of Easter visits commenced. It is the duty of every Russian at Easter to call upon all his friends and to eat and drink with them. Open house was kept everywhere, and the latch string was out for all. Theoretically, the beggar of the street enters at will the dining-room of the noble and helps himself to the good things of the table. This, however, is no longer the case in the metropolis and the larger towns of the empire, but it is still literally true in the villages and rural communities, where no one is refused admittance.

So onerous have official and private Easter visits become that the Red Cross Society this year evolved an ingenious means of relief and to benefit its treasury, by which a subscription of $50 secures the publication of the donor's name in the Official Messenger, carrying with it immunity from official calls. Many eagerly took advantage of the scheme.

The masses spent the day in merry-making, the sun shone brightly and the sidewalks were thronged with promenaders.

GREETINGS FROM THE BRAVE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—The Emperor's sailors and soldiers in the Far East telegraphed Easter greetings to their homes at home through the Novoe Vremya, which published in four columns of small type telegrams from Port Arthur, Vladivostok, Dalny, Mukden, Harbin and other places, with the signatures to the dispatches. The messages breathe the deepest love of country and afford striking evidence of the religious bond uniting Russians.

The messages from Port Arthur represent every warship of importance except the flagship Askold and the cruiser Pallada. The telegrams are signed by the captains and other officers. The telegrams from Vladivostok were sent by the officers of the cruisers Rurik and Bogtayr.

QUIET AT GOMEL.

GOMEL (Russia,) April 10.—Easter Sunday passed quietly here. There was no anti-Jewish demonstration.

NEW CAVALRY COMMANDER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—The army organ announces the appointment of Maj.-Gen. Prince Orbeliani, a Circassian nobleman, to the command of the Caucasian cavalry brigade, newly raised for service in the Far East.

MILITARY CENSORS REST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—The military censors did not sit later than 10 o'clock tonight, and no news of fighting was received up to that hour. In case of official dispatches arriving later, they will not be given out until noon tomorrow.

MADAME A COSSACK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—The War Ministry has granted the petition of Mme. Pousep, daughter of Col. Maxiowcondurow, who desired to be enrolled in a Cossack regiment. The ministry has ordered her enrollment in the First Regiment of Riflemen.

[Mme. Pousep is 33 years of age. She was reared under the patronage of the late Emperor Alexander III, is a fine horsewoman, a good shot, and handles the rifle, revolver and sword equally well. She also is a qualified Red Cross nurse, but she says there are enough women nurses, and she wants to show that a woman can fight.—Associated Press.]

MAD RACE TO DEATH.

Fearful Accident at Santa Barbara.

Five Persons Killed and Over a Score Injured in a Street-car Disaster.

Worshipers from Old Mission are Rushed Down Hill and Buried.

Motorman Set Airbreaks and Reversed the Current, but Couldn't Stop Car.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A frightful street-car accident occurred here at noon today, resulting in the death of five persons and severe injuries to more than twenty others. Besides the seriously injured, every one of the 120 passengers received bruises and cuts, more or less severe. The dead are:

JAMES SMITH, aged 13, employé of the Lemon Exchange.

LEON CALDERON, a schoolboy, age 13.

RAMON REYES, a middle-aged laborer.

FRANCISCO DOMINGUEZ, age 70.

EARL GOLAND, age 45, teamster.

The injured:

MISS BURGIN, several ribs broken.

MISS EMILY LAMB, right leg badly lacerated.

MRS. EARLY, spine injured, still unconscious.

MRS. FRANCESCHI, bad wound on forehead and nose.

MISS LUCY RUIZ, ear crushed and eardrum broken.

MISS VIRGINIA RUIZ, three ribs broken.

DR. ROSA K. ENGERT, Chicago, fracture of the skull.

MRS. SILVA, internal injuries.

MRS. J. S. BANCROFT, bruised about the body, left hand injured.

MARY ARELLANES, arm broken, and badly bruised.

NORA LOMBARD, bruised and cut on face, arm broken.

FRANCES OLIVOS, collar bone broken; cut about head and face.

MRS. BEATRICE ROBERTS, sprained ankle.

VICTOR KELTON, motorman, bruised and cut on shoulder and face.

ALICE DUPUY, arm and shoulder, injured.

MRS. GOLAND, wife of Earl Goland.

EDMUND SCHREINER, Chicago, several ribs broken.

JOSEPHINE CIVNAUX.

MRS. W. H. PORTER, daughter of W. A. Armstrong of Washington, D. C.

MISS A. PORTER.

At 11:30 o'clock this morning, a trolley-car carrying about 120 passengers, who had been attending morning service at the Old Mission, got beyond the control of the motorman, and after a mad race down the steep grade left the rails at the second curve encountered, and turned completely over, burying its load of human freight beneath a mass of splintered wood and twisted iron. Four of the victims were killed outright and in addition to over a score of injured, many received a shaking-up which they will remember for some time.

The wreck was a frightful one, and several of the willing helpers who were soon on the scene fainted at the shocking sight. The car was one of the most up-to-date and thoroughly equipped pattern and was almost new, having been on the road only about a week. It was in charge of Victor Kelton, an experienced motorman, of good standing with the company, and William Newell, conductor. The car was as large as any in use in the State, and was similar to those used for long suburban trips, being fitted with airbrakes, as well as the heavy ratchet hand brakes.

The end of the street-car line is situated almost at the doors of the Old Mission, a steep hill extending for about two blocks to a sharp curve. The grade continues for another block, and then takes another sharp turn into Gordon street. It was at this second curve that the accident occurred.

An unusually large crowd was attending services at the Mission, the occasion being the first mass said by Father Florian Zettel, who was ordained last week. When the service was over, the crowd made a dash for the car waiting at the top of the grade, and in a moment it was loaded to the steps, the passengers being crushed against one another in the aisles. The heavily-laden car was started but had not gone a block before it got beyond the control of the motorman. The supposition is that he did not realize the speed of the car until it was too late to stop the headway. At the first curve, the car lifted, but settled down again, but so great was the speed that twelve persons were hurled off at the turn. It was not until this hair-raising turn was made that the passengers, mostly women and children, realized the danger, and a panic at once followed, shrieking women making frantic efforts to get to the doors.

Motorman Kelton applied the full force of the air and locked the wheels, and Conductor Newell set the hand brakes, but the heavy load and the momentum caused the car to slide with unabated speed. As a last resource, Kelton reversed the current, but even this had no effect whatever and almost before the passengers realized it, the car struck the second curve and turned over, sliding on its side into the curb and bringing up with the roof against a telegraph pole. The shock sent everyone on the outside of the car flying, and the car itself slid over them, crushing and grinding them into the ground under its weight. Those inside the car were not badly hurt, the sides and roof protecting them to a great extent. The cries of the passengers and the crash of the breaking car attracted a crowd to the spot in no time, people rushing from the adjoining houses and being appalled by the sight which met them. Willing workers, both men and women, rushed to the assistance of the injured, but for a while pandemonium reigned. The shrieks of the women passengers, who had escaped with only slight injuries, adding to the general confusion.

As soon as partial order was restored, doctors were sent for and the men present procured heavy timbers and started to pry the car up to release those pinned under it. In the confusion, the timbers were placed against the panels of the side of the car and three times these gave way. Finally, a proper leverage was secured, and the car was raised sufficiently to allow the dead and injured to be removed.

The sight which met the eyes of the onlookers was one which they will long remember. The entire under side of the car was lined with mangled humanity and spattered with blood from end to end. One of the dead had the entire top of his head severed, and many others were shockingly mangled. One by one the dead were taken out and laid on the grass by the roadside and on the lawns of nearby residences. Ambulances and private conveyances took the injured to the Cottage Hospital and to their homes, and within half an hour most of the work was accomplished.

Several prominent people were on the car when the accident occurred, among these being Mrs. J. Kruttschnitt, wife of the vice-president of the Southern Pacific. She is not seriously hurt.

The members of a female quartette who sang at the morning service at the Mission went through the accident without a scratch and were able to sing again at vespers.

Motorman Kelton was badly cut about the head, but was able to make a statement. He said: "I don't know how it happened, for I set the air-brakes and then the hand brakes, and finally reversed. I suppose that when the wheels locked, the load made the car slide as fast as ever. That's all I can say about it."

The Santa Barbara Consolidated Railway Company, to whose car the accident occurred, is owned and operated by the Edison Electric Company of Los Angeles.

CORONER'S VERDICT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After being out about an hour and a quarter, the Coroner's jury in the street-railway accident case finally submitted the following virdict:

"We, the Jury, find that the deceased came to their deaths by the breaking of a brake-beam casting on the car, whereby the motorman lost control of the car, which turned over at the corner of Garden and Mission streets in the city of Santa Barbara, and we do hereby exonerate the conductor and motorman from any criminal liability."

The inquest into the deaths of the five men occupied over four hours, a good deal of unimportant testimony being taken. The conditions of the injured is unchanged, and no more deaths are expected.

KRUTTSCHNITT'S FEARS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OMAHA, April 10.—Julius Kruttschnitt, whose wife was in the wrecked street car at Santa Barbara, received a telegram tonight stating that beyond a rather severe shock she was uninjured. Mr. Kruttschnitt, however, feared the shock might prove more serious than reported. His wife was severely injured in a similar accident, from the effects of which she has hardly recovered, and he fears that today's accident may result in a nervous shock.

NEWSPAPER ADVANCES.

Paris Temps Claims Russo-Japanese War Caused Demand That Has Raised Prices.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Temps says:

"The war beginning early in February caused such an increase in the circulation of American newspapers that paper manufacturers bought all available raw material in Scandinavia, Germany and Finland, and the Great Northern Paper Company, forced to curtail its production through lack of raw material, bought all that was available in Canada. There being no more reserve available, the price is rising, notably in the American market, affecting Germany and all Europe.

The advance is not confined to news paper. All branches of the paper market are affected, and the French stationers have seized the chance to raise prices."

WASHINGTON.

REAL ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Will Probably be Political Talk in Senate.

Postoffices and Indians on the Anxious Seat.

House Has Three-Million-Dollar Bill Ahead.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The appropriation bills this week will take precedence of all business in the Senate, but it is more than probable that political discussion will take up most of the time nominally devoted to appropriations. The Postoffice Bill will divide attention early in the week with the conference report on the Indian Bill. By the time these two measures shall have been disposed of, it is expected that the Sundry Civil Bill will have been reported from the Committee on Appropriations.

It is quite generally understood that several Democratic Senators will reply to Senator Spooner's speech, among them Senator Gorman. There will be an effort made to get up the Panama Canal Bill during the week, but not if it would interfere with consideration of the appropriation bills.

The measures of importance that will come before the House this week include the $3,000,000 appropriation to carry on necessary river and harbor work; the General Deficiency Bill, which is expected to come from the Appropriation Committee early in the week, the Cooper Bill amending the Philippine Civil Government Bill, authorizing bond issues by the island government for interest on improvements and guaranteeing 5 per cent. earnings, on capital to be invested on railroad buildings in the islands; the Statehood Bill and conference reports as they may come up for consideration.

The River and Harbor and General Deficiency Bills are not likely to consume much time, but the Philippine Bill, which probably will be reported by Wednesday, is expected to require at least two days' debate.

The statehood Bill's career is determined by a caucus of Republican members, to be held probably Thursday evening. A special rule from the Committee on Rules, limiting debate and providing for a vote is expected as the result of the caucus.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

WILL CONTINUE AS BEFORE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In Cabinet meetings and in conferences directly between the executive heads of departments the whole subject of the status of the Chinese immigration question, as it will be after the lapse of the existing treaty, has been thoroughly digested, and it can be stated that the administration feels that it has ample warrant for continuing to enforce the rigid provisions of the Chinese Exclusion Act, regardless of the denunciation of the treaty.

So far from opening the door to Chinese immigration, the lapse of the treaty will, it is said, actually render the entrance of the Chinese into this country more difficult than while the treaty remained in force. This fact has been pointed out to the Chinese government by Minister Conger, who has not yet abandoned the effort to induce the Chinese to reconsider their denunciation. However, it is positively stated that the exclusion laws will continue to be enforced after December next, whether the treaty exists or not.

Atty.-Gen. Knox has under consideration the question of the validity of the exclusion law of 1902, in view of the denunciation of the treaty, and he will prepare and submit to the President an opinion on the seubject.

Both the President and Attorney-General have discussed the matter with the members of Congress. It is being considered carefully, too, by the leaders of both branches of Congres, and, if it be deemed necessary, some legislative action will be taken on it before adjournment. If it should be concluded that the denunciation of the treaty by China would render inoperative the existing laws regarding Chinese exclusion, the probable course of action will be to attach to one of the pending appropriation bills an amendment enforcing the exclusion of the Chinese.

Members of Congress generally are agreed that no difficulty will be experienced in passing the legislation, if it should be regarded as necessary.

IRRIGATION WORK.

BIG PROJECTS PASSED UPON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The progress made in the irrigation work of the government is reviewed in a publication issued by the Geological Survey, which points out the necessity for great caution and conservatism in the expansion of the reclamation work. It says that if the irrigation projects favorably reported in 1902, which included those on the Truckee River in Nevada; on the Salt River in Arizona; on Milk River in Montana; on Sweet Water River in Wyoming and on Gunnison River in Colorado, the Nevada and Arizona projects have been found feasible and construction on the engineering works along the Truckee and Salt Rivers has progressed to a reasonable extent. The Montana project, however, has presented unexpected engineering difficulties, as well as complications regarding water rights, so that progress is slow. It has been found necessary to modify the first plans in order to achieve early results.

The Wyoming project as first outlined has been found impracticable. A better reservoir site than that on the Sweet Water River, however, has been discovered on the North Platte, so that a large system of development may be worked out there in the future. Engineering difficulties are encountered in the Colorado project.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

FOR BURKE AND FOEDERER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Pursuant to a special order, the House of Representatives today conducted memorial services in memory of the late Representatives Burke and Foederer of Pennsylvania. In addition to the members of the families, a large number of Pennsylvanians occupied seats in the galleries. Each of the large list of speakers paid touching tributes to the two departed members, some venturing into the realm of politics to demonstrate that Messrs. Foederer and Burke had built up vast businesses and acquired great wealth through the protective tariffs system.

Mr. Adams of Pennsylvania said that, previous to the election of Mr. Burke, his district, which was the old Samuel B. Randall district, for ages had been misrepresented in Congress, and had been a blot on the city of Philadelphia, because it did not represent the sentiment of the people, nor the doctrine on which its vast manufactures were dependent for success. He declared, however, that the district had been redeemed by Mr. Burke from Democratic control forever.

Resolutions of sympathy and respect were adopted, following which the House adjourned until tomorrow.

DATE FOR ADJOURNMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 10.—April 28 has been discussed in committee rooms and among Senators and Representatives as not at all an improbable date for the termination of the present session of Congress. No call has yet been issued, but Republican leaders of the Senate anticipate holding a meeting of the steering committee early next week to agree on a general programme for the remaining days of the session.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Alaskan Coal Deposits.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Geological Survey has received a report of an extensive deposit of Alaskan coal, accessible to the Pacific Ocean, located from twelve to twenty-five miles inland from Controller Bay, Alaska. The coal fields lie behind the Controller Bay Oil fields, at the foot of the Chugach Mountains. The coal and oil were found to be in two distinctly separate formations, that lie in roughly parallel belts.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Visit.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Mrs. Roosevelt left today for Groton, Mass., for a visit with her sons.

YAQUI LEADERS EXECUTED.

HERMOSILLO (Mex.) April 10.—Manuel Guavesi, who for five years had been at the head of the Yaqui rebels in Sonora and who in that time has instigated many uprisings, and one Maravilla, a lesser leader of the savages, have been captured by Capt. Barron and executed. They were discovered among a number of prisoners taken in an engagement with a band of Indians near Bamotote, and Capt. Barron not being prepared to take any chances, ordered them shot immediately. They died bravely.

OBITUARY.

Col. Charles H. Page.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Col. Charles H. Page, formerly a member of the board of review of the National Trotting Association, and well known to turfmen throughout the country, died here today of heart disease. He was 70 years of age.

Sherman Tupper.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Sherman Tupper, an old-time actor, died here today of pneumonia, at the age of 59 years. His first engagement was in Maggie Mitchell's company. He was with Roland Reed for nine years, and was five years with William H. Crane, in whose company he was playing at the time of his death. His wife is a sister of Joseph Murphy of "Kerry Gow" fame.

THE VERY LATEST.

WAR NEWS AFTER MIDNIGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The World's Chefoo correspondent says: "I am informed by high Peking officials that the feeling in Chinese official circles resembles that in 1900, before the Boxer uprising.

"The dismissal of Prince Su and the transference of the seals to Na Tung indicates that a policy inimical to foreigners is fermenting in the capital. The pro-Japanese party, including Prince Ching and Chu Lu, is using its best endeavors to obtain the dismissal of officials who have friendly leaning towards Europeans. The general unrest among the people proves the grave possibility that China's neutrality will be broken, despite official assurances to the contrary.

BUYING OF LINERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Russian government has not ceased its purchases of German trans-Atlantic liners. From a trustworthy source it is reported that Russia at present is in negotiation for the purchase of a considerable number of German vessels. These are to be armed, and together with the Smolensk and the Orel of the Black Sea fleet are to form a flying squadron of fast cruisers. The Fuerst Bismarck, which has been renamed the Don, will join this squadron.

The Russian government is also negotiating with the French Compagnie trans-Atlantique.

ADVANCE NORTHWARD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PING YANG, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Everything points to the Japanese advance northward now assuming more serious proportions. Today 3000 men and eight guns left here for Anju, where Gen. Sasaka has taken command, Gen. Enouye remaining at Ping Yang. The place of the departing troops has been taken by others arriving daily.

Ice has practically disappeared from the river at Ping Yang, allowing the completion of a pontoon bridge and also permitting a light-draught Korean steamer from Chinnampo to come within five miles of this city, thus establishing an easy means of communication between Chinnampo, the great landing point, and Ping Yang, the great base.

WAR BULLETINS FROM MANY POINTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A news agency dispatch from Peking says Minister Conger has decided that it is inexpedient to send newly-appointed American consuls to Antung and Mukden immediately. James W. Davidson, the appointee to Antung, is awaiting developments at Shanghai. British consuls and Chinese custom officers will not go to the new treaty ports.

JEWS SAFE EASTER DAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—The Associated Press has received special reports from all the Jewish districts of Russia regarding the happenings of Easter Sunday. Up to 2 o'clock this morning, according to these dispatches, the Russian Easter passed quietly and there was absolutely no attempt to molest the Jews, the provincial Governors acting in accordance with instructions from St. Petersburg.

The faithful execution of the Governor's orders to the local authorities and the police prevented the outbreaks which were feared at Kishineff, the scene of the disturbances last Easter. There was not a single case there in which Jews and Christians were involved. The government officials here are gratified that order has been so generally preserved.

ROJESTVENSKY INTERVIEWED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, April 10.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Petit Parisien cables an interview he had with Admiral Rojestvensky, chief of the General Staff of the Navy, in the course of which the admiral admitted that he had been offered and accepted the command of the Baltic squadron, adding that he was not certain whether the squadron would go to the Far East.

The Emperor, the admiral said, desired the squadron to be ready to sail by July 15 next, but this is considered too hasty a movement in official circles, where it is affirmed that, on the departure of the squadron, a certain complication may arise in Europe.

"Moreover, there will not be work for seamen in the Far East in September, for then," said the admiral, "the Japanese will have conveyed to Korea sufficient cannon, ammunition and provisions to enable them to carry on a campaign for many months. The Japanese will not hesitate to spend enormous sums for apparently inadequate results, and this proves that they are sure that they can renew their supplies and ammunition, and that they have friends who will furnish all they need."

Questioned concerning the Japanese tactics, the admiral said: "Vice-Admiral Togo is quite right to remain faithful to his plan, although the appearances are against him. We know from a sure source that he is certain he can repair his vessels and renew his supplies, even of heavy artillery, if needful."

Admiral Rojestvensky expressed regret that Russia did not take the initiative in attacking, even in sacrificing her fleet, if thereby she crippled the Japanese navy.

BALTIC SQUADRON'S VOYAGE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The report on the proposed voyage of the Baltic squadron to the Far East via Kara Sea has been submitted to the Czar by Commander Kuleicki, at the head of a special mission, himself followed the route traversed by Nordenskjold. He estimates that the passage will be clear of ice by the end of June. He is quite confident of being able to pilot the squadron and reckons to be off the Island of Saghalien by the end of August.

MONTREAL'S STREETS FILLED WITH WATERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MONTREAL, April 10.—Montreal is experiencing a serious flood. Early today, a large quantity of ice came down from Lake St. Louis and jammed up against the Victoria bridge. In a few minutes the water began to rise, and in a short time it had reached the top of the dyke, built after the last great flood, and which had been up to the present time a sufficient protection. In a short time it became possible to navigate all that portion of Verdun in the neighborhood of Queen's Park with boats. All the teams that could be pressed into service were engaged in strengthening and raising the dykes. At 6 o'clock the water had reached a depth of six feet in the streets. Tonight it is falling, but the danger is by no means over yet, as there is more ice to come down.

Three thousand people in the village of Verdun, adjoining the limits of Montreal, are tonight living in the upper stories of their houses, while several thousand more who reside in the part of the city known as Point St. Charles are in danger.

La Prairie, which is situated opposite Verdun, was flooded at an early hour today, and four houses situated on the river front were carried off their foundations by the ice.

ATTACKED LOS ANGELENOS.

ROW AT SALT LAKE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) April 10.—A religious meeting at the Nazarene Mission Church was broken up in a row tonight. Mrs. Kent White of Denver, an evangelist; her traveling companion, R. E. Beedleman, and J. A. Headlund, a local architect and member of the board of directors of the church, were arrested for making a disturbance and taken to the Police Station.

Mrs. White held nightly meetings in the church last week. In one address she attacked the Nazarene Church at Los Angeles and thereby incurred the disapproval of some of the church members. She was requested not to speak again. Tonight, however, she refused to be silenced, and, together with Beedleman and Headlund, is said to have disturbed the meeting by singing and jumping about after the fashion of the "Holy Jumpers." The police were called and the arrests followed.

NOTED CONFEDERATE DEAD.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Daniel Keegan, the Confederate soldier who blew the last bugle call at the battle of Appomattox and who, in later years, sounded "taps" over the graves of many of his comrades, was found dead in his room today.

HOISTING ENGINEERS.

BRAZIL (Ind.) April 10.—It is reported here tonight that the hoisting engineers at a secret meeting voted to withdraw from their own organization and join the United Mine Workers.

FIRST AID TO INJURED.

Oakland Railroad Company Plans Relief Work.

Claims Adjuster Designs a Convenient Stretcher.

Sale of Shasta Gold Lands. Warm April Weather.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

OAKLAND, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In order to have its employés better prepared to act in emergencies for the relief of persons who may be hurt on its lines, the Oakland Transit Consolidated Electric Railroad Company is considering a plan for training motormen and conductors in the methods of "first aid" to the injured. The plan is to turn its force into an emergency Red Cross corps, modeled on the United States army regulations, and includes individual instruction to men in rapid relief work.

Claims Adjuster John Férrin has designed a stretcher built to fold into a small package, to be stowed under the car seat. When extended, the device can be used as a stretcher to carry an injured person, or as a seat on which a person hurt by a street-car may be laid in comfort until aid arrives. The Transit Company is considering the installation of one of these stretchers on each car.

It is in connection with the installing of this device that the company plans to give its motormen and conductors instruction in the care and relief of wounded persons. It proposes that every man working on its cars shall know how to handle injured persons and be able to take measures for temporary relief of the suffering.

SHASTA GOLD LANDS.

BIG PURCHASE EFFECTED.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

REDDING, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A deal has just been closed whereby W. P. Hammon and others interested in dredging operations at Oroville become the purchasers of 1050 acres of gold-bearing gravel land on Cottonwood Creek, Shasta county, by the payment of $160,000, of which $25,000 was paid down yesterday, the remainder to be paid in six months.

T. J. Fish, Douglas S. Cone and Andrew Nixon of Tehama county made the $160,000 bond obtained three months ago, clearing $100,000 by the deal. The land lies in the southern part of the county, where a dredger costing $90,000 has been in operation long enough to demonstrate the profit of mining placers in that section by the dredger process. W. P. Hammon, the leading purchaser, is a pioneer of dredging mining in California.

HAVE BURIED THE HATCHET.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The California Promotion Committee's excursion special arrived this evening, ending a four-and-a-half days' trip, covering 1200 miles.

"The metropolis is much closer to the South than it was before," said President Andrea Sbarboro. "We have accomplished most of all toward eliminating all sectional feeling, which was not honest, friendly rivalry. At Los Angeles we buried the hatchet, and on the way up the coast we threw the hammer into the sea."

GIRL IN BOY'S CLOTHES.

ARRESTS ON A TRAIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MERCED, April 10.—A young man named Stephenson, from Los Angeles, and Miss Bigelow, a fifteen-year-old girl of that city, who was dressed in boy's clothes, were arrested here today while passing through on the Los Angeles Southern Pacific Overland, north bound. The girl is a daughter of Conductor Bigelow of the Owl train. Stephenson claims that he was en route to Sacramento, and that the girl insisted upon accompanying him. The girl is being cared for at the home of Under Sheriff Moore, where she was provided with apparel suitable to her sex. Stephenson is in jail.

LAKE TRAFFIC AFFECTED.

With reports due any day that the Straits of Mackinac are open, vesselmen are beginning to consider the coming season of navigation. The outlook for business is the worst for five years back. In but a single line of traffic is the prospect for business good. That line is coal. In iron ore, grain and lumber shipments in sight for the first half of the season are so small that it seems hardly worth while to fit out the fleet.

COUNT SEEKING HEIRESS.

Count Alphonse de Campan of Toulouse, France, is in Chicago looking for an American heiress to wed. He poses at the Auditorium Hotel as coming of a family beside which that of Count Boni de Castellane is parvenu. The Count declares the bride must possess an income of her own of not less than $50,000 a year. He would not accept an heiress; she must have the money in hand.

"I am enamored," he declared, "of the tall, fair, athletic type. She must walk with a stride like a goddess of the golf field."

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE DYING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VINCENNES (Ind.) April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Perry A. Collins, Republican candidate for Prosecuting Attorney for the Twelfth Judicial Circuit, was found on the streets of this city tonight in an unconscious condition and was taken to the hospital, where he is dying. He was evidently held up and sandbagged, as he has several cuts on the head, where he had been hit. Two years ago he was visiting his brother-in-law, near the coal mines, when a stick of dynamite was thrown into the house, tearing the building to pieces. Collins sustained injuries from which he never fully recovered.

SPEECHER—HIS STRATEGY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WAUKEGAN (Ill.) April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Acting Overseer Speecher, in his sermon at Zion City today, declared bullets and cannon too puny to do battle with, and announced that the weapon of Zion would be poisoned food.

"If we go to war," he said, "I would stuff food full of poison and then lay it at night along the walls near the enemy's camps. In the morning they would eat the poisoned food and we would have no enemy to fight."

NICHOLSON LAW DENOUNCED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KOKOMO (Ind.) April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rev. J. C. Rhodes, pastor of the First Baptist Church, created a sensation today by declaring that the noted Nicholson law by which temperance forces have set so much store was a failure.

TO SECOND ROOSEVELT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Grant Matthews, nominee for Congress from the One Hundred and Fourth Tennessee District, is understood to be the man selected to second the nomination of Roosevelt in the National Republican Convention. He is cashier of the Memphis postoffice and was formerly clerk in the office of "Alabama" Dick Austin, United States Marshal in the Eastern division. He once ran for Congress in the Second Tennessee District, being defeated by Gibson for the Republican nomination.

Shot Through the Heart.

BERKELEY, April 10.—Ed Lauritama, aged 14 years, accidentally shot and killed John Valaiti, his boy companion, today. They were hunting in the hills, and for amusement began firing at a demijohn. Lauriana was about to shoot, when Valaiti tried to pull him back a few paces. Lauritana slipped and fell and the revolver was discharged, the bullet passing through Valaiti's heart. Both boys came from San Francisco.

Fell Under the Wheels.

SACRAMENTO, April 10.—A young man, who stated before he died that his name was Arthur Kreger, attempted to board a moving train in the railroad yard of this city, lost his hold, fell beneath the wheels and had both legs severed from his body. He was taken to the County Hospital, where he died shortly after his arrival. He claimed that his father resides at Cleveland, O.

Station Ship for Guam.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The government steamer Supply is to sail tomorrow for Midway Island and Guam, and will remain at the last-named place permanently as a station ship. Twenty-five marines are to be carried to Midway Island, where they will act as a guard on the island, and the steamer also carries supplies for the Lone Island, where only a cable station exists. A surgeon for the cable company is also booked for Midway. The Supply is commanded by Lieutenant-Commander Pond.

"Hard Luck and the Devil."

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—A man supposed to be Gus M. Crowley, a laborer, committed suicide today in a lodging-house by blowing off the top of his head with a shotgun. Little was known of him at the house where he roomed. He left an unsigned note, which read:

"To the people of the House: Please excuse me for doing this, but I am driven to it by hard luck and the devil, and a woman is the devil."

Santa Fe Railroad Operations.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—Opening of the Santa Fé Railroad operations in Oakland has been postponed to May 15. The long continued wet weather so seriously interfered with construction work at the new depot and yards that the delay is necessary. May 1 was originally selected as a time when it was thought everything would be in readiness.

BAD FEELINGS AT CATTARO.

ITALIAN VESSEL THREATENED BY AUSTRIAN GENDARMES.

Diplomatic Negotiations Over the Former Provinces of the Kingdom Affected by an Untoward Incident. Meeting at Abazzia Produced Satisfactory Understanding.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, April 10.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Signor Tittoni, the Italian Foreign Minister, in an interview today said that he and Count Goluchowski, the Austrian Foreign Minister, were entirely satisfied with their meeting at Abazzia yesterday, the result of which he would communicate to Parliament. The following, telegraphed from Vienna to the Independent, caused a sensation:

"The resurrection agitation in Italy, in which the agitators claimed the Italian provinces still under Austria, so strained the relations of the two countries that they were several times on the point of declaring war. Austria was indignant when Italy protested to the Emperor of Germany, who, according to the Triple Alliance, is the arbiter of Austro-Hungary-Italian disputes. The Emperor decided that Italy was wrong in not repressing the anti-Austria movement, and that Austria would be wrong if she tried to occupy Albania and thus conflict with Italian interests.

"There being no appeal from this decision, Italy and Austria decided to complete the accord obtained through the meeting at Naples of Emperor William and King Victor Emmanuel, in whose toasts, contrary to other similar manifestations, Emperor Francis Joseph was cordially alluded to. Besides, this meeting at Abazzia, which occurred in one of the Italian provinces, subject to Austria, is to be understood as Italy's formal renunciation of this province."

Bad Austro-Italian feeling, in which there is a risk of checking the work of diplomacy, has been aroused by an incident which occurred while the meeting between the ministers at Abazzia was taking place. The Italian steamer Molfetta, on arriving at Cattaro (a fortified seaport in the Austrian province of Dalmatia) was approached by Austrian gendarmes, who said they wished to inspect the vessel. The captain of the Molfette refused to allow the gendarmes to come on board if they carried arms, and the soldiers threatened to attack the ship. The captain displayed the Italian flag over the gangway when the gendarmes were ordered to fire. Before the order could be carried into effect, the captain yielded, in order to avoid bloodshed. The Italian government will bring the matter up with the Austrian government and ask for an explanation.

MAKE WAR ON PESTS.

French Minister of Agriculture Asks for Large Sum to Combat Rats, Ravens and Magpies.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Minister of Agriculture, M. Mougeot, has asked for f.350,000 to be voted by the chamber, with which he proposes to combat the plague of rats from which a corner of the Department of Charentes is suffering. The damage done by these little rodents to the crops of cereals last season was so great that the campaign to be waged by M. Mougeot has the hearty support of all farmers of the district thus attacked. The means to be employed for their destruction is poison, to be provided by the scientists of the Basteur Institute.

But the work of destruction does not stop at rats. The farmers have petitioned for help in getting rid also of ravens and magpies, which prey upon game, and part of the f.350,000 demanded from the nation will be appropriated for this purpose.

NO MORE OPEN SUNDAYS.

World's Fair Grounds to be Closed Hereafter—Harriman Entertains President Francis.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. LOUIS, April 10.—Today was the last open Sunday at the World's Fair grounds, as, April 15, the grounds will be closed to all visitors until the fair opens formally, and thereafter will be closed Sunday. More than twenty-five thousand people took advantage of the fair weather and visited the grounds today.

The private car of President E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific Railroad was switched into the fair grounds today, and remained all night. President Francis and other exposition officials were entertained at dinner in Harriman's car tonight.

KRUTTSCHNITT GOING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OMAHA (Neb.) April 10.—Julius Kruttschnitt spent today in Omaha, being en route to St. Louis, where he will meet E. H. Harriman. At St. Louis, the party will start for a tour of the Harriman lines, going first to New Orleans, thence west on the Southern Pacific. The party from St. Louis will include President Harriman, John J. Hill, Stuyvesant Fish, W. H. Burthorne, Kruttschnitt and a number of other prominent railroad men.

Kruttschnitt said that no other official changes were contemplated on the Harriman lines, all vacancies having been filed. Kruttschnitt added that the tour of the system from New Orleans had no particular significance. He also stated that the general auditing department over which Erastus Young has charge would not be removed to Chicago, at least for the present.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

Leaders Put up the Programme for the Convention Which Will Begin Its Sessions Tomorrow.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 10.—Prominent Republicans from all parts of the State are in the city, in anticipation of the meeting, Tuesday, of the New York State Republican convention, which is to select delegates-at-large and alternates-at-large to the National Republican Convention, and electors-at-large to be voted for in the election in November. The work of the convention was practically agreed upon at a conference of the leaders tonight.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew will be temporary chairman and Representative Payne the permanent chairman of the convention, and the delegates-at-large probably will be Senators Platt and Depew, Gov. Odell and former Gov. Frank S. Black.

It is a foregone conclusion that Gov. Odell will be elected to the chairmanships of the State Committee. There will only be one contested delegation to the convention, that from Seneca county.

DISEASE COSTS MONEY.

Health Commissioner Lewis Estimates Value of Human Lives Lost in New York at $94,960,000.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ALBANY (N. Y.) April 10.—Millions upon millions of dollars annually lost to the people of the State of New York through preventable diseases is the keynote of the annual report of State Health Commissioner Lewis to the Governor, made public today.

"If the momentary value of a human life is assumed to be worth $5000," said Dr. Lewis, "the deaths from five preventable diseases during 1903, in this State, represents a loss of $94,960,000. These figures seem appalling, and yet millions upon millions can properly be added to this sum, in loss of wages, expense of the care of the sick and many other expenses incidental to the management of these epidemics and infectious diseases."

The commissioner shows that there was vast opportunity and abundant authority to meet conditions, but absurdly insufficient appropriations with which to perform the necessary work, for which he believes $1,000,000 a year could be used with advantage to the people of the State.

MOURNING FOR ISABELLA.

PARIS, April 10.—The remains of ex-Queen Isabella, clad in the habit of the Sisterhood of St. Francis, were this morning placed on a catafalque in the great drawing-room of the Palace Castillo, the late Queen's residence, which had been converted into a chapelle ardente. Only diplomats, French government officials and Spanish notabilities were admitted to the palace in the morning. The public was admitted in the afternoon.

STABBING OF BROTHERS.

Three Gilbridges and Two McShanes Seriously Wounded in a Fight Lasting Half an Hour.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 10.—In a feud here today, three brothers, Thomas, William and Michael Gilbridge, were seriously, if not fatally, stabbed, and Harry and John McShane, also brothers, were badly wounded. The men fought their way out of a saloon on First avenue and Twenty-third street, causing a crowd to collect, that blocked the surface cars and led to the calling out of the police reserves.

The fight lasted half an hour. When the police reserves arrived they sent Thomas and William Gilbridge to the hospital and arrested the two McShanes, who were bleeding from a dozen wounds. Michael Gilbridge, with a serious stab wound over his heart, evaded the police.

GREAT GOLD PRODUCER.

DURANGO (Mex.) April 10.—Vincent Estrado, a millionaire miner, has sold one of his properties, the Santa Lucretia, to an American company for $3,000,000. The Santa Lucretia is one of the greatest gold-producing mines of Durango. The purchasers intend to exploit the property on a very large scale, and to this effect machinery is being ordered from the United States.

MEXICAN PAPER COMBINE.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 10.—All the paper factories in the Federal district, six in number, have been merged into a combination, it is believed, for the purpose of controlling the output and the price of paper. The six factories have a combined capital of $15,000,000. Thomas Grannit of this city is at the head of the company.

STEAM YACHT'S VOYAGE.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The ninety-ton steam yacht Roxana, which was built in Milwaukee last year for John W. Gates, arrived here today from Chicago, after a voyage down the Mississippi out through the Gulf of Mexico and up the Atlantic Coast. The vessel was 177 days in making the trip.

LEVEE CAVES IN.

ROLLING FORKS (Miss.) April 10.—It is reported tonight that a portion of the levee at Gales Head has caved in, seriously impairing the strength of the embankment and causing grave fears of a crevasse. Large forces of men are engaged in reinforcing the levee.

FIRST CARS TO GLENDALE.

Two Put Into Service on New Line Yesterday.

Crawling of Rails Prevents Getting up Speed.

Seventy Minutes for Round Trip at Send-off.

Now it is the beautiful San Fernando Valley that has received the populating touch of the great Huntington interurban car system. Up through the great pass, looking away from mid-air trestles over native oaks studding far-reaching fields, all dashed with the lavender and yellow and red of wild flowers—there's a riot of white forget-me-nots up that valley, too—to the vast purple piles of the Sierra Madre, and further, to the snowy-hoary heads of the San Bernardinos; cleaving the heat-dazzled fields of strawberries, already stained blood-red with their sweetening crops, and through orchards ablaom, the first electric car from the teeming city meandered yesterday morning into Glendale, skirting Tropico and many a rancher's home where the air bears a burden of perfume from a million and a million blossoms.

RAFERT PHOTOS

The most picturesque of electric car rides from Los Angeles is this one into the famous strawberry country. Sometimes the line hangs close to the side of a cliff, descending from its perilous position again over a towering trestle that wades the limpid river—thin, failing, but still gratefully cool little stream, creeping from the hypnotic sun that is drawing its spirit away, into the shadow of the hill to purgle and rest in the pool a moment before it must issue on; and then the tracks file through an echoing "cut," into the full sweep of the great bowl-valley, consummately painted in living pigments by the hand of the Master Artist—and still on, through hamlets and vineyards and gardens. Once the road dives right under the tracks of another electric road—the one to Hollywood—and other times it climbs over the tracks of the steam trains, always straight away for the edge of the valley's further wall—which it will scale some day, through a nick in the rim, and lead on again, and on, to Santa Barbara, and perchance to San Francisco.

At 8 o'clock in the morning a car started from Glendale for Los Angeles, and another from the junction of the new line with the Temple street road, near Echo Park, for Glendale, and thus this territory to the north was added to Los Angeles' dependencies—or now the region is practically one of the city's colonies, as close a suburb in point of time as Pasadena or Hollywood.

Only two cars were operated yesterday, as yet only a single track is completed, and this is still unsurfaced, and in rough condition. The heat of the past few days has warped great kinks into the rails in places—where the track has "crawled"—and slow running is necessary. The round trip from the Temple-street junction is made in seventy minutes, but when the double track is in condition the run from the center of the city into Glendale will be made in twenty-five minutes.

One of the picturesque features of the road in its present crude state are the encampments of Mexican laborers along the still incomplete line. One big camp, in an eucalyptus grove close to the track, was especially picturesque in the heat of yesterday, the dusky inhabitants disengaging themselves of all superfluous clothes and seeking the most sylvan spots wherein to stretch out and cook. A photographer on one of the passing cars flushed a whole covey of maids and matrons who were cooling their heels in a shady spot beside the track, by training his black box on the nomad village. The women ran shrieking for their tents, in foolish fright. It is still a primitive country, where electric cars and quick firing newspaper cameras first made their appearance yesterday.

To get the Glendale cars, take the Temple-street line to the junction with the new road, and pay twenty-five cents for the round trip. Tickets are sold on the Temple-street cars, and transfers given at the junction.

The new road is equipped with heavy steel rails, and the roadbed promises to be as fine as any hereabouts. Electric communication will undoubtedly bring many wealthy home-site seekers into the beautiful Tropico-Glendale region, and folks out there are looking for a real estate "boom."

The immense berry crop of the region will undoubtedly soon be handled by the electric road, which will find a handsome freight trade in this line.

Already the season is on in the berry fields, and camps of berry pickers are to be seen by the wayside.

The cars now stop near the Union High School in Glendale, although rails are laid considerably farther on to the northward.

ROBBED WHILE ASLEEP.

Prospector Relieved of His Money by Unknown Hangers-on in an East First Street Saloon.

Michael Keene, a prospector, came in from the desert Saturday to purchase a month's supplies. He made a number of purchases, but mostly of a liquid kind, the effect of which was to make him forget all about the purpose of his trip. He went to the Vendome saloon on East First street and Central avenue yesterday, and made further investments in liquids and then laid himself down to dream. How long he slept he does not know but when he awoke he found that his pockets had been cut open, and $30, all the money he had, was missing.

OLD SEXTON'S NOVEL RAFFLE.

Opened Yesterday at Plaza Mission Church.

Famous Commode's Thirteen Secret Drawers.

Story Connecting Spain and City of Angels.

"Don José"—that is, Señor Don José Gonzales Compano—has made up his mind to part with his life's treasure, the wonderful orange-wood bureau with the thirteen secret drawers. This sounds very simple, but back of it all is a tale of pathos and human interest that is touching the hearts and opening the pocketbooks of many parishioners of that quaint old pile, the Church of Our Lady of Angels.

Who is there who kneels before the altar of Our Lady of Angels who doesn't know old Don José? Little boys and girls have grown to young manhood and young womanhood since they first began to perform their devotions in the odd wooden pews kept clean and neat by Don José. As far back as the time of Father Adam and Father Peter old José has been the sexton at the Church of Our Lady of Angels.

José Compano is a Spaniard and as the shadows have lengthened and his step has become less and still less robust, José has dreamed many day-dreams of the fair Cadiz, in the land of his nativity, and of the five children he left there when he made up his mind to come to the New World and seek Dame Fortune's favor.

And there are other pictures in the dream of old José. The two sturdy youths and the three buxom señoritas to whom he gave his paternal blessing when he sailed away, have niños of their own now, and the tender heart of the old sexton yearns to sit under the rooftree of his sons and daughters and caress the children of his children.

So, after all these years, old José has decided to part with the wonderful orange-wood bureau with the still more wonderful thirteen secret drawers.

For twenty-one years José Gonsalez Compano has been an attaché of the old mission, and there is not a stick or stone in the church or the rectory that has not some special interest to this man. A few years ago it was decided to cut down the orange trees which stood in the patio back of the church and rectory, and this was the beginning of the wonderful bureau.

After the orange trees were cut, José saved the wood, and set to work with infinite patience on the creation of his great masterpiece.

With only a pocket-knife for his equipment, José began to carve out of the orange wood curious designs and figures, and on this he wrought patiently at his odd moments for three years. As he carved and whittled the design grew, until an elaborate decorative scheme was evolved—the creation which had come to take a large place in the life of the simple old sexton.

There were hearts and twining vines and crosses, and diamond-shapes, and the fine tracery, as of real Spanish lace work, all wrought out with loving care by José's keen knife, until there were boxes and boxes of them piled away for the grand ensemble.

Then the choicest of California redwood was obtained, and José exercised his cunning ingenuity in the building of the famous bureau. A five-drawer chest, surmounted with glass, it appeared on casual glance; but within its sides and compartment walls José contrived to place thirteen hidden drawers, and not one of them disturbs the symmetry of the "commode."

Then came the ornamentation with the mission orange wood, and the laboriously-carved fixtures were inlaid at front, sides and back, until the redwood piece of furniture took on the aspect of a wonderful mosaic.

There are over 2000 pieces of wood used in its construction, and many of them have required weeks of delicate work in their execution and mounting.

So proud had the old man been of his treasure, that he has refused, time and again to part with it, and often he has exhibited the wonderful "commode" to dignitaries of the church and tourist visitors as he detailed the manner of its creation and the history of the "naranja" trees that had stood for so many years in the old patio, and from which the designs were carved.

But the heart-hunger for old España and the children's children at fair Cadiz has been growing as Don José has aged, and the dollars necessary for the passage money seemed so far away that the old sexton has at last hit upon the expedient of raffling off the "commode" for this purpose.

Yesterday the remarkable piece of furniture set out on the brick walk of the rectory, and was admired by hundreds of visitors, and the old sexton was made happy by the sale of many tickets, while each investor was happy in the hope that their little investment might win for them this treasure.

Years and years ago, so far back that the old sexton can scarcely call it to mind nowadays, Don José sailed from Spain as a ship's carpenter, and making the voyage clear around the Horn, finally landed in the little seaport of San Pedro.

He at once came to Los Angeles, and was kindly received by the Spanish families here, and finally drifted to the Plaza Church and began the care for its buildings. If enough can be realized from the sale of the old man's masterpiece, he will return to Spain in about two months, and will settle down to spend his remaining days with his children.

CANADIAN SEAL CATCHES.

ST. JOHNS (N. F.) April 10.—The steamer Panther, with 10,000 seals, arrived today from the ice fields, and reports that the remainder of the fleet has somewhat larger catches than announced in previous reports. The master of the Panther says that the steamer Bloodhound is following with a similar catch.

NEVER SUCH APRIL RUSH.

Hot Weather Drove Crowds to the Seashore.

Are but Two Fiercer April Days on Record.

The Winners in Eighty-eight and Ninety-eight.

Of those who find Sunday pleasure in going down to the sea in cars, "there were plenty, more as plenty," as the song says. The electric roads carried the biggest Sunday crowds of the year to the beaches, as befitted the hottest day of the season to date.

When Weather Observer Franklin scurried down from the roof of the Trust Building at 5 p.m., after taking his regular observation of the government thermometer, he reported, "Maximum temperature 96 deg.—the hottest yet." During all last summer there was no sultrier forenoon than yesterday.

Probably there was no one in town who felt like contradicting the weather oracle on the "hottest yet," proposition. The only addition to this observation which the ordinary citizen might have made is "hotter still on the street," for the official thermometer is away up above the seventh story coolness of Los Angeles atmospheres.

Only twice since the United States Weather Bureau began to keep April records in Los Angeles in 1878 have there been hotter April days—one in 1888 and another in 1896, both registering a maximum of 99 deg. The records show, however, that hot weather is to be expected during this month.

Observer Franklin said yesterday that he could not say whether or not it would be cooler today, as no reports on weather in other regions are received on Sunday, but he suggested that yesterday was the third of the extremely hot days, which fact, according to precedent, portended cooler weather today.

Early in the morning crowds began to board the beach-bound electric cars, in search of the refreshing company of old Pacific, and it was soon evident that extra service would be required. Ten additional cars were put on the Long Beach run of the Pacific Electric, making a seven minute service throughout the day. It was estimated that this line carried between 9000 and 10,000 people.

The Los Angeles Pacific operated cars every ten minutes between this city and Santa Monica all day, and handled between 4000 and 5000 passengers. Travel to Redondo, both on this company's line and those of the Redondo Railway was also the heaviest of the season. All together, it was the biggest April Sunday at the beaches in the history of the local electric roads.

At the Churches Yesterday.

Temple Baptist Church.

THE baptism of several candidates was a feature of the morning service in the Temple Baptist Church. The pastor, Robert J. Burdette preached on John xiii:17—"If ye know these things, blessed are ye if ye do them."

"A man's religion is something more than his opinions," he remarked. "So far as general sentiment carries, the Church rules the world today. In a complacent way, men accept the fact of Christianity. They endorse the teachings of the church about as they accept the platform of their political parties. Nations that massacre their law-abiding subjects for the crime of book in the world, with earnestness, prayer and a persistent desire to know the truth which will make us free from error, sin and superstition, Jesus Christ will assert Himself in our hearts and minds, and as our teacher lead us into all truth and show us things to come. It is folly, nay, it is madness, to seek for any other teacher than the one whom God has appointed to be the light of the world. The results of his life for nineteen centuries are the strongest proof that the universe is on His side, that He has overcome the world, and that His leadership has the authority and power of God. Therefore, we should never cease to thank God for our great teacher, and to teach the young to accept His leadership, and to win the greatest victories in His armies or righteousness.

Rev. Frederick William Clampett preaching at Christ Church yesterday.

Jews, or burn certain of their sons at the stake for the offense of being black, or enslave them for the fortune of being weak, or cut off the hands because they do not bring enough tribute to satisfy the greed of their masters—Russia, the United States, England, Belgium—these are all accounted Christian nations, and with the exception they are unspeakably horrified at the atrocities perpetrated by Russia. A great many men, I fear, have an idea that this feeling of indignation against Russia alone will carry them to heaven. This is probably a mistake. We support the gospel. We issue Thanksgiving proclamations annually. If the disaster is sufficiently appalling and widespread, we are sometimes frightened into a day of fasting, and when we are morally certain that God has utterly forgotten this world of His, we pray for rain. Congregations are large. Preachers are listened to with respect, often with deep interest, sometimes with eager and earnest hearts. A well-to-do, respectable man, of good standing in society, is rather ashamed not to go to church. The Bible is read and studied by all classes, save in the colleges and universities, if we may believe the occasional utterances of the professors. And we may.

"But Christianity is more than all this surface endorsement and knowledge. It is the active, resolute service of heart and hand and life wholly given to Christ. It is sweetly written of our Lord Jesus that 'he went about doing good.' 'Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only,' writes the Apostle James, 'deluding your own selves, for if any one is a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a mirror: for he beholdeth himself, and goeth away, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.'"

Dr. Thomson.

Rev. J. S. Thomson, pastor of the Independent Church of Christ, in the Simpson Auditorium, preached yesterday on "Christ's Choice of Masters." Following is the line of his thought:

We learn from Christ's temptation in the desert that the first question that Satan put to Him was—wilt Thou prefer the gratification of passion to the study of God's word? The second question was—wilt Thou use Thy power in such a way as to show Thou lovest the praise of men more than the praise of God? and the third question was—wilt Thou worship me and deny God for the political lordship of the world? It is very plain that Christ had His choice of masters. He was free to worship Satan or God. He quoted the authority of scripture against Satanic temptation, and gained a mighty victory. He accepted God as His master. He would worship the highest only. When a rational man becomes conscious of himself and his surroundings in this world, he has several serious questions to answer. How can I make the best investment of my life? I have strength, genius, opportunity, education, how can I make those qualifications contribute to the highest investment of my life? What is the most important purpose of my earthly existence? Where can I find the best teacher to guide me in these matters? There is a condition of existence, called the kingdom of God. There is a condition of spirit, called the eternal life. There is a condition of mind called faith, and there is a sense of God that manifests itself in worship. In the vast regions of morals and religion, these things are fundamental. Who can make us understand these things? Who can help us in the best way to realize and possess these things? In other words, who is the teacher who knows us far better than we know ourselves? That teacher is the divine and infallible Christ. "To whom shall we go but to Thee; Thou hast the words of eternal life," and this is life everlasting to know Thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent." Christ's life, gospel and example, are clearly set before us in the New Testament. If we study this grandest, truest and best book in the world, with earnestness, prayer and a persistent desire to know the truth which will make us free from error, sin and superstition, Jesus Christ will assert Himself in our hearts and minds, and as our teacher lead us into all truth and show us things to come. It is folly, nay, it is madness, to seek for any other teacher than the one whom God has appointed to be the light of the world. The results of his life for nineteen centuries are the strongest proof that the universe is on His side, that He has overcome the world, and that His leadership has the authority and power of God. Therefore, we should never cease to thank God for our great teacher, and to teach the young to accept His leadership, and to win the greatest victories in His armies or righteousness.

On Conduct.

Rev. C. J. K. Jones preached yesterday morning in the Church of the Unity on "The Religion of Conduct." He said in part:

"There is much talk of church unity among some modern Christians of various denominations. All manner of propositions have been suggested as a basis of union, but all are founded on a creed. The most general of these propositions has been the so-called 'Apostles' Creed.' Of course these propositions are, in fact, only unofficial suggestions. So far as the ruling authorities in the sectarian churches are concerned there has been no serious effort made to bring together more closely the various branches of the Christian faith. Much less has there been any effort made to unite all faiths in a common endeavor to help forward all truth and righteousness in the earth. The Congress of Religions at Chicago in 1893 was an attempt at getting at the basis of an expression of things commonly believed among good men, but the result of that Congress was practically nil. There was, and there is, too much narrow-mindedness and dogmatic bigotry controlling things religious; to admit of religion on the basis of creed cannot be effected. Creeds separate men, not unite them. Indeed, it cannot be otherwise. Creeds are the result of theological guesswork; the formulation of the dreams and hopes of the religious aspiration and imagination. In such matters one man's dream and hope is as valid as any other man's dream and hope. The only possible basis of religious union and cooperation is that which makes religion itself to be religion, namely, conduct.

"'All hearts confess the saints elect,
Who, twain in faith, in love agree,
And melt not in an acid sect,
The Christian pearl of charity.'

"Christianity and the world of intelligent men and women, bears a load of merited reproach because of the separations and appositions made by the divisions of our race in matters of religion. Someone has said 'Life is three-fourths conduct,' and I may add that the remaining fourth should be based on conduct. It is of least account what a man's creed may be. It is of utmost account to his fellow men what his conduct is."

—o—

Faith Cure Fallacies.

Christian Science occupied the thought of pulpit and pew yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. Frank DeWitt Talmage taking for his subject the story of Jacob and Laban in their historical cattle deal. The central thought in the application of the story was that while Jacob had the promise of all the ring streaked, speckled and spotted increase of Laban's cattle he assisted Providence in favoring him by seeing to it that a goodly portion were marked at birth. So, the preacher contended, while we have the promise of physical benefits God expects us to do our part in securing them.

"The whole trend of the Bible," said Dr. Talmage, "teaches that works and faith, as twin sisters, should go hand-in-hand in search of the waters of physical health, yet faith curists blind their eyes and stop their ears to these Biblical teachings. They get a hold of one little passage of Scripture and separate it from all its surrounding connections. As a sweet morsel, they turn it over and over and over again. They magnify it. They distort it, and then they rest their entire belief upon it. These people may be good at heart, but they treat Scripture somewhat as a famous reformer did in the noted meeting he had with John Calvin in Munich, I believe, in about the year 1540. After he had valiantly helped to fight the battle of the reformation to a glorious and successful issue, he still clung tenaciously to the doctrine of transubstantiation. That doctrine, in plain language, means that when we drink of the communion wine and eat of the communion bread, we literally are drinking of Christ's blood and eating of Christ's body. The other school of theological thought held that when we assemble at the communion table, we only eat of Christ's body and drink of Christ's blood in symbol. We eat and drink in symbol, as the lamb's blood shed upon the Jewish altar was the symbol of Christ's blood about to be shed for us. This battle over transubstantiation raged bitterly for years between the two schools of religious thought. In order to bring this theological conflict to a close, the two schools persuaded the two leaders, John Calvin and this mighty man, to meet and discuss the theological questions at issue. What did this famous reformer do at that confefence? History tells us that he brought along a tablecloth, upon which were embroidered these six words, taken from the twenty-sixth chapter of Matthew: "Take, eat; this is my body." Then he placed that cloth over a table and simply rested his hand upon it and said nothing. No matter what arguments were brought forward, he answered nothing. All that he did was to point to the one sentence written upon the table: "Take, eat; this is my body." "But," said John Calvin, "Christ also said, 'I am the vine, ye are the branches.' Are you going to take that sentence literally? Does that sentence imply that Jesus is a stick?" But the reformer would answer nothing. All that he did was to point to the one sentence upon the table, which read: "Take, eat; this is my body." So in the same way the faith curists, pure and simple, will not accept the trend of the Bible's teachings. They will not compare passage with passage. They will not see that every leaf of every chapter of every book of the Bible teaches that faith must go hand-in-hand with works. They will not see that it is almost impossible to find an incident where Christ healed the sick, unless at the same time he compelled action upon the part of those whom he would physically help.

"Faith cure teachings, pure and simple, are not only contrary to scriptural common-sense, but also antagonistic to the commendations with which the Bible again and again honors human medicament and the physicians' prescriptions. The only passage in the Bible which in any way might be construed by the casual reader as a slur upon doctors and drugs, is that one so often quoted by Faith Curists, from the words found in the Book of Job, 'Ye are forgers of lies. Ye are all physicians of no value.' But Job is not here alluding to true physicians at all. This sentence is a figure of speech. Job had lost patience with his three friends, Eliphaz, Zophar and Bildad. These three friends, instead of comforting him in his time of trouble, came around with enough groans and whines to make a well man sick, or a sick man still sicker. They asserted that Job's boils were the results of his sins, and Job, in disgust, plainly told them if they could bring no better comfort than that, they had all better clear out. Instead of groaning around Job as they did, they ought to have spoken words of true comfort to him, as did Curist in His remarks about the blind man, when he said, 'Neither hath this man sinned nor his parents, but'—he was born blind—'that the works of God should be made manifest in him.'

"Again, Faith Cure, pure and simple, if accepted in its entirety of belief, would call a halt to the laboratory investigations made for prevention of disease, as well as the physician's cures of those diseases after they have come. It would say to Edward Jenner, 'Your discovery of vaccination is useless. Disease is a condition of the mind, not of the body. Let merciless smallpox start out again if it will. The $50,000 voted to you by the British House of Parliament, as the greatest benefactor of your generation, was a nonsensical gift; for you have been a curse to the human race instead of a blessing.' It would say to Pasteur: 'Savant, your inoculation for hydrophobia is itself a species of madness. If the people would only trust God and do nothing, the bite of the dog afflicted with rabies would be a tonic instead of death.' It would say to Koch of Berlin and Finsen of Norway: 'Foolish men, why hunt the bacilli of consumption and cancer with the penetrating eye of the microscope? God will and can cure disease if we will ask Him. Let us pray that all these evil bacilli give one gasp and die, and they will die. The prevention of disease is entirely the work of the prayer chamber, not of the scientist's laboratory.' Is such advice as that rational? Is it in accord with the laws of scriptural common sense?"

Rev. B. Fay Mills.

Rev. Benjamin Fay Mills concluded for the present, his special series of addresses yesterday in Blanchard Hall with a sermon on the subject, "The Greater Easter." He said, in part:

"There are more serious questions than personal immortality. One of them is, what is life? Another is, is life worth living? And a third, are you living now? I believe that it is time to insist on the dignity and worth of this present phase of life. Going away somewhere will not solve our problems. The problem of existence must be solved here and now. We must learn thoroughly to justify this world, and all that has been and is and shall be anywhere."

Mr. Mills will spend the coming week in Pasadena, speaking twice daily in the old First Baptist Church. He will then visit San José, Salt Lake and Denver, before he returns to spend his vacation at Camp Cabrillo, Santa Catalina, where he will lecture twice daily from July 15 to September 1.

Jesus as a Son.

At the First Christian Church yesterday morning Rev. A. C. Smither began a series of sermons on Jesus. He will preach on such subjects as "Jesus the Preacher, the Sufferer, the Counsellor, the Worker," etc. Yesterday morning he preached on "Jesus the Son." He said in part:

"That God would reveal Himself to the intelligent creatures of His own land would seem both possible and probable. That He has so communicated His will and nature to man is most certain. That revelation is not only to man but is through man. This factfact argues man's relation to divine and his adaptation as a means of divine revelation to the race. He could not have so spoken either to or through the lower order of evolution. The fact that man can receive the divine law proves the order of his intelligence and spiritual possibilities. That He would communicate His will in His Son is most reasonable, and most probable. His Son would possess His own nature and would sustain most intimate relations to God and man.

"Jesus was not only the Son of God, but was also the Son of man, and was as human as He was divine. His character was a combination of the human and the divine. He was the God manifest in the flesh, God speaking to the flesh and through the flesh. Like human beings, He entered into this life through the gates of birth as we shall all pass out of life through the gates of death. He was Son to one of the best women of earth. He learned of God and man and passed along the pathway of growth. With His own hand He toiled for His own support and possibly for others dependent upon Him. He was a dutiful son and faithful in all His house. There is no trait in the Master more beautiful or worthy of emphasis than His touching and unswerving fidelity to His mother. Even in the agony of the crucifixion He was not unmindful of the one who gave Him birth and ministered to His helpless infancy. No man has ever so honored womanhood as did Jesus. As a faithful son he exalted her to her present splendid position in human life.

"This sonship was not only human. It was divine. Apart from the ordinary processes of generation He was begotten by the Holy Spirit who overshadowed the virgin and begat within her the Holy Child Jesus. His marvelous and miraculous conception was on a level with His supernatural nature and was no more wonderful than His character, words, works and service to God and man.

"In His earthly mission as a Son He reached the highest manifestation and revelation of God on earth. He was the regal representative of His Father in the earth. He was a dutiful Son striving to win back to law and obedience the wandering prodigals on this earth. He was striving to win them back to home of law and service. His example of fidelity and service in His Father's house must ever be an inspiration and help to the poor, wayward children of earth, who strive after the Infinite and the Eternal."

"The Kingdom of God."

Rev. Frederick W. Clampett of Trinity Episcopal Church of San Francisco, one of the foremost pulpit orators in the church today, is in Los Angeles to attend the missionary conference. He was chosen by Bishop Brent of the Philippine Islands to represent him at the convention.

Yesterday morning Dr. Clampett preached in Christ Church, delivering to a large congregation a practical discourse on "The Kingdom of God."

The speaker directed his remarks largely to a threefold reason why the growth of the kingdom of God is being retarded. He declared that the delay in the extension of the kingdom was due to man, whom God has appointed as the medium through which the developed life should come. There were many who ascribed in the first place the evident inconsistency of many of the Christian disciples as one great reason for failure. The speaker remarked that it was an unfair and illogical position. By analogy it would destroy all constitutionality. The great army of shyster lawyers does not affect the pure ermine of justice, the foundation of all law. The quacks, who crowd their miserable names into the columns of the daily press, do not invalidate the pure science of surgery and medicine. Nor should the merits of the Christian faith be decided by the demerits of her faithless followers. The counterpart does not destroy the validity of the true metal.

In the second place, there is more to be said in the dissensions of Christendom. The enemy is united. The powers of darkness are working in harmony against the truth. But the truth is divided and mutilated and distrusted. Countless isms are springing up. Weak so-called church organizations are being created. Cults like Christian Science, which is mere mental suggestion, natural hypnotism, are taking the name of Christ and bringing dishonor upon God. The denominations are not in unity among themselves. There is an exclusiveness, of which the Episcopal Church, must take its share of the blame, which forbids mutuality of service. We make refusal where Christian unity should be first possible at the holy table in the act of holy communion. The kingdom is God's, not man's, and its range of empire far greater than we calculate.

Into that kingdom have entered noble men of the past, who, like Socrates and Plato, could never have heard the name of Christ.

In the last place, he showed that the false conception of God and His truth kept thoughtful men away. Material hells and doctrines of total depravity will not magnetize thinking men to the kingdom. The era of love has entered and the message of divine love must become the ultimate potent power.

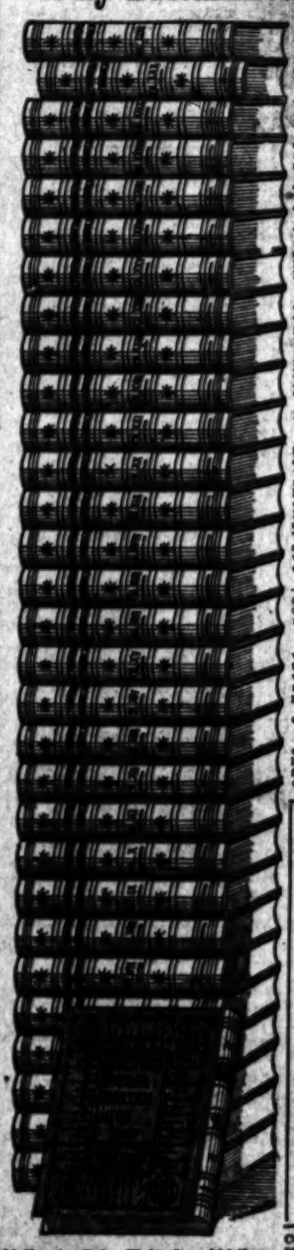
Why Britannica Stands Alone



31 Massive Vols. Wght. Over 200 lbs.

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica is unrivaled among reference works because of the scope and authority of its articles. No one of its 1100 eminent contributors was secured for a subject unless that subject were peculiarly his own. And no question of cost was allowed to have bearing upon the compilation. Three millions of dollars were expended to make it absolutely complete.

Representing the best human thought and research for a century and a quarter—and with constant revisions keeping it absolutely up to date—BRITANNICA stands alone in its field! Other compendiums are so much smaller that it would be unfair, even to the best of them, to compare them with BRITANNICA.

IN ENGLAND

We find the most eminent scholars and statesmen contributing to its pages—men such as Dean Farrar, the Hon. John Morley, Lord Kelvin, Richard A. Proctor, the Hon. James Bryce, Matthew Arnold, A. C. Swinburne and Andrew Lang.

IN AMERICA

The array of learning is no less evident. The special articles by American writers have long since made the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA appeal as strongly to this country as it does to England. We find among the many names those of Henry Cabot Lodge, Edward Everett Hale, Arthur Twining Hadley, George W. Cable, Charles A. Briggs and Whitelaw Reid.

BRITANNICA is intended for the English-speaking race the world over!

Pleasure and Profit Combined.

This King of Encyclopedias is not alone invaluable for reference—to settle knotty questions, or fit a man better for his work. It is also a source of delightful reading. The article on Pitt by Macaulay is marked by all the brilliancy of his essays. The articles by Stevenson and Lang have all the keen insight and finest style which made these writers famous. The article on Astronomy (since reprinted as a book) by Richard A. Proctor, the world's greatest astronomer, occupies eighty pages, illustrated.

And these it is in every range of thought—science, philosophy, arts, mechanics, law, medicine, theology—BRITANNICA is the one work which gives full, accurate and readable articles.

Twelve Thousand Illustrations!

In cuts, pictures, plans and maps the work totals 12,000 illustrations. It contains 25,000 pages and 50,000,000 printed words. These facts make it no matter of marvel that BRITANNICA is without a peer!

The marvel is that it may now be procured at

WHAT IS SAID OF IT.

"It's without a peer in the whole noble army of encyclopedias."—LYMAN ABBOTT, D.D.

"The Encyclopedia Britannica is king of its tribe."—PROF. DAVID SWING.

"The most useful reference book for young or old is the Encyclopedia britannica. Children beginning at 10 years old and on need its stories of historical, biographical, mythological, elementary-scientific, natural history information. The eager boy can study balloons, kinds of dogs or firearms, locomotives, habits of the beauty or cockroach. The youth may want information on subjects from geology or electricity to the settlement of the Fiji Islands, or volcanoes and earthquakes, or a most fascinating story of Napoleon; and for the still older all the fundamental conceptions of law, medicine, theology, ethics, sociology, curves and functions, architecture, art—all the way up, perhaps to the origin of some fine editorial on Chinese metaphysics. Whether for education or information, no man who once has this book will ever let himself or his children be without constant access to it. If another deluge came and the ark had room for but one secular book, this is beyond any doubt the one."—CLEMENT T. ATES, Judge of Court, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The sermon palls, his taste is ...ated the delights of outdoors ...ord to escape and the day of ...comes a day of grim effort to ...master a succession of maundering, meaningless mediocrities, for the most part."

Isn't this a blood-curdling picture of a perverted Sabbath? In vain the appealing church chimes call the good people to worship when the Sunday paper comes bumping up the front steps. Everybody straightway seizes upon the "monstrosity"—the man begins to pollute his soul reading the news of the world gathered with special care and fullness for the Sunday issue; the wife begins to poison her mind with its many household suggestions, trade-bringing announcements of merchants and its various departments prepared with particular reference to her profit, enlightenment and entertainment; and the blessed children start upon the downward path to ruin by reading the wholesome juvenile departments so carefully prepared and edited for their education and amusement.

Of course Sammy wasn't in the least influenced, in penning his amusing screed, by the fact that the Sunday paper makes his Saturday Evening Spook look like a plugged thirty-cent piece.

Dream on, dream on. The pipe will soon go out. Surely no one will begrudge Sputtering Sammy his fun with his little hammer.

In view of his outburst, it seems almost cruel to remind him that the Sunday paper is here to stay; that on the average it gives more worth-while reading matter for the money than any other publication on earth; that statistics, cold, unassailable figures, show that the Sunday paper advertisement is one of the greatest trade-pullers known; and that The Times continues to distribute every week more than 53,000 copies of this Sunday treat, containing more bona fide paid advertising than any other daily newspaper in the world. Simple Sammy most grievously errs in narrowly condemning the Sunday paper as an institution. There are Sunday papers and Sunday papers—and if he had confined his attack to those which may be offensive, as some admittedly are, he would not have made himself the laughing-stock of all intelligent persons.

POINTING THE WAY.

The Atlanta Constitution, discussing conditions of Democratic success, says: "It must be obvious to all who take more than a casual interest in the success of the Democratic party," that conditions necessary to success are little changed from what they have always been. Notwithstanding in addressing those who take "more than a casual interest" in Democratic success, the Constitution confines itself to a very select few, its remarks are delightfully humorous.

The Constitution finds, as the first condition, "Harmony among those who are sincere Democrats." If any element of the impossible has here been omitted, its disguise is perfect. Democratic "harmony," considered either as existing or probable, has long and legitimately been a favorite theme of the jokesmiths. Bryanism and the innumerable other "isms" of Democracy have made discrimination between a sincere and an insincere Democrat a task too strenuous for the average citizen to undertake. Unhappily, the aspirations of the Black Hills miner seem to indicate that the deadly "ism" habit is growing on the Democracy.

The Constitution does not believe in "violent personal denunciation of any Presidential aspirant"—and declines to except even Hearst, Bryan and Cleveland. But it studiously neglects to point out that the assuming of just this attitude is responsible in large measure for Democracy's pathetic condition today. If the representative and influential Democratic press and party members had in the past unhesitatingly and mercilessly denounced and crushed the various "isms" which have arisen in that party, the Democracy would not now be in so demoralized a condition. By accepting Bryanism and numerous other fallacies, Democracy forfeited the confidence, respect and support of the American people which it had at intervals secured and which placed it in control of the government. So long as the Wattersonian principle of unqualified acceptance of any man who may be nominated, and the Constitution principle of silence (and therefore friendliness) toward every aspirant irrespective of fitness and ability, prevail in the Democratic party, just so long that party will be repudiated by the voters of the country. With Bryan not yet wholly gagged, and with Hearst insolently flaunting his gold and his scarlet habiliments in the face of his party and his fellow-citizens, with the small outcry against either, except from the Republicans, the prospect for the revival of a common sense, confidence-winning Democracy does not appear luminous.

The Constitution ends its dream by giving Hearst a dainty but effective jolt. It concedes New York to the "doubtful" column; points the fact that the "doubtful" States are the deciding factors and must therefore be given preference by States which will "roll up the usual Democratic majority;" and says that without New York Democratic success is impossible. This deftly but effectively eliminates the alleged Californian, as far as the Constitution is concerned. And Bryan? . . . Hub!

According to revised figures of the beet-sugar production for the season of 1903 and 1904 California leads the twelve States interested in this industry. The fifty-three factories in operation in this country sliced 1,804,106 tons of beets and produced 208,125 tons of sugar, an increase of 12,672 tons over the preceding season. California produced 60,638 tons, Michigan is second with a production of 57,061 tons, Colorado third with 29,586 tons, Utah fourth with 28,670 tons and Nebraska fifth with 8869 tons. No other State produced 5000 tons or more. Nearly 9 per cent. of the sugar now consumed in this country is manufactured from beets.

It is now reported that Hearst has engaged three floors, 150 rooms, at the Planters' Hotel in St. Louis, and was only prevented from buying every hotel room in the city by the refusal of the proprietors to rent them to him. These rooms are, of course, intended to accommodate those who go to the convention to root or vote for Willyum. If these sumptuous arrangements are made solely with a view to housin' Hearst delegates, the matter resolves itself into a cute little joke for which, however, its perpetrator is able to pay.

It comes as an awful jolt to learn that Nicola Tesla has been sued for $150 for electric power furnished to him by a Colorado Springs company, when he was conducting experiments in that city. Tesla started out with a great flourish of instruments to harness the festive lightning that coyly plays around Pike's Peak, but if allegations in the complaint are true, he didn't have to go outside the city limits to get all the electricity he could pay for.

A Philadelphia belle was recently hugged by a negro in the street, and explained that at first she thought it was one of her friends trying to surprise her. If public surprises of this kind are characteristic of Philadelphia, the old burgh is not as slow as we have been led to believe.

The Japanese Minister has just officially notified the Korean government that the Japanese army has occupied Korea. It is believed, however, that the Koreans had reason to suspect this before.

One of the Japanese officers recently killed at Port Arthur was named Takeo Hirase. As he was blown up by a torpedo and only the brass buttons of his uniform remained, it is thought that he did.

And now the glaring fishing-tackle advertisement blurs all the news in the papers and makes it mighty hard to fully appreciate the joy of working.

A local dealer has been thrown into prison for selling lizards. This is likely to cause a serious and costly slump in the lizard market.

While we are putting the telephone and telegraph wires under ground, wouldn't it be a good idea to bury the political wires also?

A dispatch from Houston, Tex., says: "The negroes who have been causing trouble west of this city have disappeared." This recalls the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the Far West, which found that deceased committed suicide by opening a jack-pot on a pair of deuces.

A New York chorus girl recently gave a $5000 dinner, and yet some people aver there are no "angels" on earth.

Si Poot, he took his pencil out,
And then he paused to say:
"You see, the thing to me is plain
As' hapened jest this way."
He laid the two-pound weight upon
The paper near at hand;
"Thet ar's Port Arthur, jest the spot
Whur all the Japs should land."

He drew a thing of funny shape
It cannot be denied;
"This is the bay, a battleship
This pound weight that's inside;
Them beams they are torpeder boats
All ready fer to shoot;
Them peanuts are torpeders, an'
A pesky thing to boot!

"Them oyster crackers crusers are

"Zip goes them peanuses, an' gee whiz!
Torpeders they are great—"
But Perkins leaned across and said:
"Si, hand me that ar weight."

While Isre'l Pembrock gobbled down
Torpedoes one by one.

Although he is not so very aged, being only 77, Edward Atkinson, the noted anti-imperialist, anti-expansionist, economist and inventor, is so feeble that he can no longer write his name, but uses a rubber stamp in signing his name. This is done even on checks of large or small amount. As such a signature is not legal, Mr. Atkinson renders it so by attesting it according to the Bertillon system. He inks the ball of his thumb on a pad and leaves the imprint on the check, as much as to say, "Edward Atkinson, his thumb."

Mark Twain and William Dean Howells were one day lunching in a New York Café. Two young men entered and the first said in a loud voice: "Waiter, bring me some bisque of lobster, a bottle of wine and a chop. Just mention my name to the cook, so that everything will be done to my liking." The second young man said: "Bring me some sole with peas, and tell the cook who it is for." Mr. Twain gave his order a moment later. He said in a loud voice: "Bring me half a dozen oysters and mention my name to each of them."

Why Koreans Wear Big Hats.

In Korea they don't make a woman take off her very best hat in the theater, but they do, or at least once did, compel a man to wear his hat in all his waking hours, and, moreover, a very broad-brimmed hat. The reason for this public edict was to prevent conspirators against the throne from whispering to each other.—[London Mail.

Photographic View of Japanese Cavalry Scouting Near Ping Yang.

PHOTOGRAPH BY R. L. DUNN, COLLIER'S SPECIAL WAR PHOTOGRAPHER IN KOREA. PHOTOGRAPH COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY COLLIER'S WEEKLY.

After the Japanese army of invasion landed at Chemulpo, February 10, and occupied Seoul, the next step in advance was toward Ping Yang, a town a little more than half way on the road from the capital to the Yalu River, which is the northern boundary of Korea. Ping Yang is not far from the western coast, and many regiments, landed at Chemulpo and other points nearer than Chemulpo, have been concentrated at this strategic center. It was here that the Japanese and Chinese fought a decisive battle in the war of 1894, the Japanese victory ensuring them the mastery of Korea. That there are to be important developments from Ping Yang seems certain, because such correspondents as followed the Japanese army to that point, including R. L. Dunn, Collier's special war photographer, were "requested" by the Japanese authorities to return to Seoul "for the present." The Russians are known to have a considerable force south of the Yalu River—largely consisting of Cossack cavalry—and against these the Japanese have found it necessary to keep large patrols of cavalry constantly in the field. The first encounter between these outpost forces occurred on March 27 near Cheng-ju, a small town about forty miles south of the Yalu River and fifty miles north of Ping Yang. The Russian general, Mishtchenko, reported that for several days the Cossack patrols had tried unsuccessfully to draw the Japanese into action and that he had therefore sent out six troops toward Chosan, where a Japanese force was reported to be. The Russians found the Japanese in the town and attacked them from an advantageous position on higher ground. But the Japanese made a gallant defense, holding their ground until infantry reinforcements arrived, when the Russians were compelled to withdraw. There were heavy casualties on both sides.

NEW ESPEE MAIN LINE.

Randolph Helping to Build One in Arizona.

Will Parallel New Santa Fe Some Distance.

Phoenix Will be on Both the Through Lines.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 9.—Information published in The Times several months ago that the Southern Pacific Company was preparing for a change in its route through Arizona has been substantiated by the developments of the past fortnight. There now appears to doubt that the Southern Pacific is building a new main line through Arizona and that Epes Randolph has been put back to Arizona to superintend the construction and to settle the hundreds of material difficulties that must be overcome.

The new road is to start at or near Picacho station, in the southwestern part of Maricopa county. Its first objective will be over practically a level grade to Buckeye, fifty miles, and Phoenix, thirty-five miles farther on; the Gila, Hassayampa and Agua Fria rivers being bridged on the way. The thirty-five-mile stretch from Arlington to Phoenix is through a rich agricultural country.

Here Phoenix the line of the Maricopa and Phoenix and Salt River Valley railway, a Southern Pacific road, will be used to Mesa, seventeen miles distant, through the best part of the Salt River Valley. At Tempe, half way between the points mentioned, the present main line of the Maricopa and Phoenix road deflects southward to Maricopa station on the Southern Pacific, a distance of twenty-seven miles. The road between Phoenix and Mesa has been materially improved during the past few months, several hundred men being still employed putting heavy steel in place and building up the grade. At Tempe is piled up steel for the new truss bridge over Salt River. From Mesa to Florence, forty-five miles, the way is over an open plain. Here by the Gila, save for about twenty miles near Kelvin, will come extremely heavy work for nearly the entire distance, seventy miles, to San Carlos. At this point connection will be made with the Gila Valley, Globe & Northern Railway, another Southern Pacific road, that joins the present main line at Bowie station, about twenty miles southeast of San Carlos. Hereabouts, the new road will be about thirteen miles long, 107 being already constructed. This is somewhat shorter than the present route around by Tucson and Benson.

MANY GRADES ELIMINATED.

Here, by saving in distance and what will be gained by traversing only the old agricultural valleys of the Salt and Gila rivers and the great alfalfa districts of Pinal county are two of the seasons for the completion of the new line. Upon it there will be no grade in excess of one-half per cent. At present, between Phoenix and Bowie are a number of grades that seriously handicap the Southern Pacific in the economical handling of passengers and freight. A new line is needed over the Estrella mountains, west of Maricopa, from which point to Tucson is a steady climb. The middle of a mountain range between Tucson and Benson, the former of the latter point is the worst, and one of the worst on the line. Even with the through traffic diverted to the new line, the old road will be a matter of great importance, as a thoroughfare into Sonora by way of Nogales and as the only road into Bisbee, with its extensive mining cuttings. It has been suggested already that Phoenix will lose the railroad shops now paying $250,000 a month into circulation, but this is merely conjecture. The Southern Pacific is abandoning nothing in shown by the fact that new bridges are replacing culverts in Texas, and that Shattuck & Desmond of Los Angeles are opening 400,000 cubic yards of storm protection ditches along the line in Arizona.

PARALLELS SANTA FE.

The new road, which follows in the main the old Tom Scott survey line through Arizona, must necessarily parallel the new Santa Fé line, the Southern and Eastern, from Phoenix to Benson. This condition is causing no surprise in the Gila Valley above Florence, where the Santa Fé and Southern Pacific have hundreds of men at work grading on practically the same survey lines, with the exception that the engineers of the latter have driven stakes for an elevation of several feet above the grade established by their competitor. The contest thus far has been waged with reasonable vigor on both sides, though several disturbances between individuals have been reported to the authorities. Every man who will work is employed, and hundreds of Indians have been secured by both. The Southern Pacific has about 1200 more grading teams, mostly in Texas, and the prospect is that this side will have several thousand at work before a month. There is a marked contrast with the quiet manner in which the Santa Fé is conducting its work on the Coast and Eastern for the past year. The Santa Fé tunnel at Cactus, near Florence, is nearly finished, as well as the bridge across the Gila. At the tunnel's eastern end the company will have a decided advantage in the fight for position, being easy to run its rails on the line as it is built.

INJUNCTION SUITS.

Judge Kerr has refused the Southern Pacific a restraining order against the settlers, and will hear the case for injunction in Florence, December 15. The Santa Fé lawyers are reported to have filed suit in injunction against the Southern Pacific at Solomonville, county seat of Graham county, which lies all of the Arizona portion of the Gila River. Should the Santa Fé line have the right between Dudleyville and Florence, any route outside the Gila Valley would be compelled to run very much longer. The Santa Fé road could find an outlet to the route from Dudleyville through the Aravaipa Cañon into the San Pedro Valley and to Wilcox, which would be one considerably longer for the Santa Fé and would bring it out of the Gila Valley into the Southern Pacific. The Arizona corporation of the latter's subsidiary company, the Arizona and Colorado Yuma and Morenci, has the Santa Fé's termini.

RACE FOR PASSES.

The Coast and Eastern was incorporated from Phoenix to Benson, and will undoubtedly so build in time, but the main struggle will be over possession of the passes through the mountains, and it is probable that the Benson extension will wait till more weighty questions are digested. At San Carlos the Santa Fé would be in position to reach the great copper camp of Globe, with a very short branch, and by crossing the New Mexican border near Duncan or Guthrie would be gained a great advantage in the fight for the immense freight business of Morenci and Clifton, a district which produces more copper than any other section of the Southwest.

Altogether, the situation is decidedly encouraging in its effect upon Phoenix. There appear to be the strongest assurances that the city will be favored within a couple of years by being placed upon the main lines of both the Santa Fé and Southern Pacific systems. To this may be added the great development that will come through the completion of the Tonto Basin water-storage enterprise, and there appears good reason for the brightest hopes of the local resident.

RESIGNS CHAIR.

Instructor of Greek at University to Leave Institution—Longest in Service.

After eighteen years of faithful and efficient service as head of the Greek department of the University of Southern California, Mrs. Tomer Gray Cole has severed her connection with the institution. Her resignation, which was tendered in writing to the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the university was accepted at its last meeting. Mrs. Cole says the reason for giving up her position is trouble with her eyes and a desire for a respite from her arduous duties.

Mrs. Cole has served the college for a longer period than any other member of the faculty.

Under her tutelage the Greek department of the University of Southern California has made an enviable reputation.

It was largely due to the excellent work done by graduate students from Mrs. Cole's department that recognition of the grades of U.S.C. was made by Stanford and Berkeley.

Mrs. Cole has been a tower of strength in the Christian work of the college and although a very strict disciplinarian and a thorough teacher, she was dearly loved by the students.

Her husband, Prof. J. Harrison Cole, tendered his resignation as head of the Latin department last fall, but it was not accepted and he has been nominally at the head of the department during the year.

Rev. Dr. E. A. Healy, president of the Board of Trustees of the university, says the board has several candidates for Mrs. Cole's position under advisement, but that no selection has been made. Mrs. Cole will continue to occupy the Greek chair until her successor is named.

The first wledge that the police had that an swindle had been successfully ed within a few miles of this city the swindler had dropped from the n here was on receipt of a telegram the conductor of the train after first station had been reached out of city.

S. Jimison lives in the South, and his way to California. While on rain he made the acquaintance of an who appeared to be in great ble. Just before this city was hed the troubled stranger told Jim that he was bringing the body of brother to Wichita for burial. The ge was said to be in the baggage m. He explained that when he hed Wichita he would have to pay express charges before he could re- the body from the train.

imison was touched by the sad story gave the man $165. He was given heck in return for the money. The nger said he could easily get the ney by going to the bank, but if he to wait to do that the train would gone, and with it would go body of his brother. When chita was reached the train n appeared from the train in ay that caused his benefactor be suspicious, and inquiry into the se of the check Jimison had taken ved it to be worthless.—[Topeka te Journal.

TACOMA THIS WEEK.

OLD FRIENDS COMING.

Well, we have met a considerable number of the enemy and so far they have been "ourn," but wether we will be able to keep up the good work can be told better after this week. The tribe the Looloos will meet this week is the Tacoma team, which is really the Sacramento team of last year, and it goes without saying that they are hard formations. Sheehan, Casey, Eagan, McLaughlin and Graham are among those who have been here for several seasons in Mike Fisher's uniforms, and they are playing just as good ball as they ever did.

It will certainly strike the local fans that if the Looloos can beat the Seattle players they should defeat anything that came here, for Parke Wilson has banched a hot team together this year. But look out for Tacoma tomorrow.

TURF WAR OVER.

WORTH TO HAVE RACING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chicago's turf war is settled. The Worth race track will open its spring meeting April 20. This announcement was made tonight by the leaders of the Western Jockey Club's tracks in this city. The conclusion was reached after a conference of several days. The announcement a few day ago that Worth had been refused its dates and would not make any announcement of stake fixtures, created a sensation in western turf circles. The resultant turf war threatened to close all the local tracks. It got to a stage where mediation was necessary, and President Lawrence A. Young of the Washington Park Club undertook to arrange peace. As a result it is announced by Secretary Harvey T. Woodruff of the Western Jockey Club that all has been settled. Mr. Young has left for New York.

KID HORRIGAN VAGGED.

MUST LEAVE SAN DIEGO.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, April 10.—M. J. Finnerty, alias Kid Horrigan, has pleaded guilty to vagrancy in the Township Justice Court, and has been given a floater on which to leave the city. Horrigan announced a few days ago that he was here to train for a fight with Young Dewey at San Bernardino, April 22.

BILLIARDS.

THREE-CUSHION TOURNEY.

Entries are now being received at Morley's billiard alleys for a three-cushion tournament that will be started within the next ten days. A number of good players have already entered, and more are expected to come in this week. Suitable prizes will be offered the first, second and third-place men.

BASKET BALL.

TURNER TEAM VICTORIOUS.

The Turner gymnasium was the scene of a lively game of basket ball on Saturday night when the Turner Alliance team defeated the Santa Monica boys by a score of 29 to 16. The losers played a good up-hill game, but were handicapped by the absence of two of their players, Hull and Robinson. The winning team played a fast game throughout and was never in danger. The line-up was as follows:

Alliance.		Santa Monica.
Retzer	forward	Hinderer
Golding	forward	Whitworth
Carstens	center	Dunham
Mallory	guard	Hart
Gomber-Smith	guard	Springer-Garey

The officials were R. T. Bostwicks, referee; R. H. Lee, umpire; E. Elkeles, time-keeper.

COURSING HONORS.

POCATELLI WINS AGAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first contest in the Grand National championship stakes was run at Union Coursing Park today between George Nethercitts Pocatelli and G. L. Crawford's Rector. Pocatelli won the first, third and fourth courses, giving him the victory. The dogs ran very evenly, Rector leading in the first two courses by two lengths. In the third course Pocatelli led by a length. Then an undecided was run and when the dogs were slipped again they ran neck and neck for some distance, Pocatelli out-working the Crawford hound.

For the next three Sundays at Union Coursing Park two of the dogs entered in the Grand National will contest for the best three out of five courses and on the fourth Sunday from today the four winners in the preliminaries will run off the stake. Palo Alto, who was to have coursed today with Pocatelli, is still lame and will have to be withdrawn from the stake. It was said by a coursing authority that this famous hound will never enter another race. Next Sunday's contest in the Grand National will be between Fair Tralee and Lord Brazen. The open stake was won by Danny Walsh's Sacramento Boy. The dogs in the open stake ran true to form for the most part and there were few upsets.

Lily York, a clever little brindle bitch, won the open stake at Ingleside Coursing Park today. Outfooted to the hare in the deciding course by the swift hound, Clover Blossom, she stuck gamely to her work, and clearly outgamed and outworked Blossom, who has been of late a frequent stake winner. Clover Blossom had piled up four points before Lily York began to score, but once on the game the latter bitch showed splendid style, and her swifter rival failed to score another point.

All through the stake Lily York was given the hardest kind of arguments. In the semi-final she beat Friendless Boy by only a margin of a point and in the third round with Orsina the score was only 5 to 4. In her race with Royal Friend she had only two points to spare when the flag was raised.

On the other hand, Clover Blossom won her course rather handily and showed great speed. She made wild drives, however, frequently, and in the final with Lily York was a short-end in the betting.

PUGILISM.

SAN BERDOO FIGHTS.

The Gate City Athletic Club of San Bernardino will pull off its first fight next Monday night and the Berdoo sports think they will have something good out of it. Bill Whitesides of this city and Nat Dewey of San Berdoo will be the contestants, and they will meet at catchweights. Both men have been in training for several weeks. The winner has been promised a match with Kid Williams of Stockton on April 29 at San Bernardino. It is expected that a number of sports will go out from this city to see both scraps.

St. Vincent Defeated.

SAN JOSE, April 10.—Santa Clara College defeated the St. Vincent College of Los Angeles at baseball this afternoon by the score of 17 to 3.

ROUND ROBIN GOLF.

Butler and Ingram Still the Leaders. Twenty Players Remain in the Contest.

Of the thirty-eight players who entered the round-robin golf tournament, eighteen have fallen out, thirteen by the loss of three games, four by default to play the stipulated number of matches within the first week, and one by departure on an eastern trip.

Of the twenty still in the fray W. W. Butler and R. H. Ingram have seemingly much the better of the first week's tilt. The former has played nine games, winning seven, losing one and halving one; while Mr. Ingram has played eight games, with seven wins and one loss. Both players are practically two weeks ahead of their schedule, and they can, if they choose, rest on their oars and watch the remaining competitors swamp one another.

Only one contestant, J. E. Cook, has no loss to his debit; but he has four games to play, and win, before he can catch the leaders.

Some of the players have either suffered or risked speedy extinction by their sportsmanlike readiness to tackle the hardest games of the series, and in this respect William Frederickson, W. K. Jewett and P. C. Waterous are prominently to the fore. The first named of these is still in the running, with three wins, two losses and two halved matches. But Messrs. Jewett and Waterous are both out.

Of the standing of the remaining sixteen competitors the following may be roughly stated:

P. R. Wilson has five games won, one lost and one halved; Hay Chapman and George J. Denis have each four games won and two lost; J. F. Sartori and N. F. Wilshire have each three games won and one lost; A. H. Conger, J. H. Gwinn and F. A. Hines have each three games won and two lost; Winsor Walton has two games won, one lost and one halved; J. L. Ball has two games won, two lost and one halved; Albert Crutcher and Frederick Stevenson have each two games won and two lost; W. S. Brown has one game won, two lost and one halved, while Messrs. Holliday, Pettigrew and Thayer have each one game won and two lost.

No less than thirteen of the contestants have two losses written up against them, and they are thus liable at any moment to be cast into outer darkness by a single game.

PRINCE PU LUN ENTERTAINED.

HONOLULU, April 10.—Prince Pu Lun, nephew of the Emperor of China, who is en route to the United States to represent the Chinese government at th St. Louis exposition, arrived here today on the steamer Gaelic. Upon his arrival here, Prince Pu Lun was escorted by Federal and Territorial troops and police to his hotel, where he was officially welcomed by Gov. Carter and a large crowd of people, mostly Chinese. Later in the day, the Prince made an official call on Gov. Carter. An elaborate reception was held tonight at the Chinese consulate in honor of the Prince. Prince Pu Lun will leave tomorrow for San Francisco.

WAR AGAINST THE JUMPERS.

Kohler Street Doesn't Want to be Saved.

Howling Dervishes Disturb the Neighborhood.

Hot Appeals to Police to Stop the Orgies.

The telephone wires between Kohler street and the Police Station were kept sizzling yesterday afternoon by residents who did not want to be saved.

At least they did not care to receive salvation at the hands of "Rev." Davis and his band of "Hoosier jumpers," and they said so plainly, over the 'phone while imploring the desk sergeant to send down a platoon of police and put a stop to the religious orgies of the new cult which has recently established headquarters at No. 739 Kohler street.

"Send an officer down quick for they are murdering some one here in a church," was the way one voice put it over the 'phone. Then followed quickly a number of protests from Kohler-streeters asking that the Hoosiers be arrested, squelched, mobbed, dynamited or hung. The entire neighborhood rose up and joined in one mighty roar against the men from Indiana who were conducting a holiness meeting, for, the deponents said, the religious enthusiasts were making so much noise that life in that section of the city was becoming a fearful burden.

Officers were sent to the scene, but no arrests were made, as the police considered the case out of their jurisdiction. Residents were advised to swear out a warrant. H. M. Crowell of No. 747 Kohler street stated that he would swear out a warrant today charging Rev. Davis and his band of "Hoosier jumpers" with disturbing the peace. Every resident of the block between Seventh and Eighth streets says he or she will be in court when the case comes up, for they will be compelled to move away if the "Holiness" people are allowed to continue their pandemonium.

When it comes to strenuosity in religious work the old-fashioned shouting Methodists and the "Holy Rollers" are "neverwases" in comparison to the "Hoosier Jumpers." Stage acrobats would turn green with envy could they but look in on the "doin's" on Kohler street. Whenever a sinner comes forward and says he thinks he'll mend his ways, the howling and yelling can be heard for a dozen blocks. The poor sinner is pounded and hammered until he probably thinks repentance is too late for him. When finally turned loose the sinner looks like one of Opper's pictures of the common people.

Yesterday afternoon and last night the enthusiasm amounted almost to frenzy.

"I'm going to climb straight up to Jesus," yelled a woman, as she rushed to the wall and began digging with her nails. It took her some time to become convinced that the wall route was not a good one. Several men went through various contortions, yelling like demons all the while and a negro jumped and shouted "amens" until he nearly collapsed.

"Rev." Davis and his jumpers have been holding meetings for a week in the building formerly occupied by Winters, the fake healer. Neighbors say that the meetings frequently last until 11 o'clock at night, after beginning at 7:30, and on Sunday the better part of the day is given over to the hullabaloo. Crowds of boys and men flock about the door and jeer the man and his co-workers, but still the awful yells continue.

Residents of the district say that yesterday was the worst day of the week and an indignation meeting was held. Delegates were sent to the jumpers asking them to stop the noise, but the jumpers said: "We are doing it all for you, as we want to save you."

"But we don't want to be saved that way," protested the delegates.

"Ours is the only way," was about all the satisfaction offered and the delegates retired to hatch a plan to get even.

TURKO-BULGARIAN TREATY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 10.—The signing of the Turko-Bulgarian treaty has been received with considerable satisfaction in diplomatic circles here, and it is believed it will contribute materially toward the reestablishment of relations between the two countries.

TRACING THE ORANGE ILLS.

Freeze, Friction and Price-cutting Evils.

Merger's War With Older Eastern Dealers.

Exchange Men Gloat Over Independents' Losses.

With elaborate extracts from many letters, an interview with an expert on advertising oranges to enlarge the market, and this summing up of the situation by The Times reporter, who was in the field, this series of discussions is closed, so far as the writer is concerned.

For over 100 years oranges have been grown in Southern California. They became of commercial importance nearly forty years ago, when the late D. B. Wilson, sending small parcels as gifts to friends in San Francisco, they fell under the observation of fruit sellers, who wrote Mr. Wilson that they had a market at good prices for all he could send them. For twenty years our oranges have been becoming better and better known in all the markets of the East.

The crop of this season is the largest ever produced in the district. Oranges and lemons, if all had been marketed, would have exceeded 25,000 carloads, or 9,000,000 boxes. Averaging 200 to the box, it would have been 1,800,000,000 oranges and lemons. Estimating the lemons at about 2000 carloads, or one-twelfth of the crop, the supply of oranges would have been 1,750,000,000, and, assuming that there are 85,000,000 people in the United States and Canada, this would be over twenty oranges for every man, woman and child in the territory where the fruit is sold. There is no disguising the fact that this is a large supply. Intelligent men of expert knowledge say it is none too large.

THE MERGER FORMED.

A year ago last month the eastern market for California oranges was bad. The crop was of merely moderate volume, but it was being marketed by two separate and, unfortunately, hostile camps. In 1892 some growers, wishing to create better marketing conditions and to secure protection, formed growers' associations all over the section, and these were grouped in exchanges, each embracing a considerable district. These were organized in a central body known as the Southern California Fruit Exchange. In these exchanges in ten years had been gathered something less than half the oranges in the section. The rest of the crop was sold through companies of independent dealers. Some of these bought the fruit f.o.b. California; that is, they paid the growers so much spot cash, either in a lump sum for the crop of a grove, or so much per pound for the fruit in the orchard, or at the depot. The growers got his price, and was free from further anxiety, the buyer taking all the trouble and risk of shipping and marketing. In other instances the fruit was handled on commission. As said, these camps were unfortunately hostile. Each charged the other with deliberately cutting prices to the detriment of the grower in the main.

This was followed by the formation of the merger, which consists of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, composed of growers, and the California Citrus Union, made up of packers. The promulgated idea of the combine was to bring about a harmony of interests so as to keep the California orange from competing with itself.

A. H. Naftzger, president and general manager of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, was made president and general manager of the merger, or, as it is known in law of the California Fruit Agency.

MARKETING SCHEME.

The growers represented in the Citrus Union were to pay that organization 39½ cents per box for packing and marketing the fruit, which was to be sold East for what it might bring, the growers to pay the freight and get what was left. This is held to be practically the same basis as that on which the exchange does business for the growers in that body. It is assumed that the net cost of packing oranges is somewhere from 2s to 3s cents per box, so the union makes about 9 or 10 cents a box out of the business, less its share of the expenses of selling at the East. This is done by the agency, the exchange paying half the expense, the union the other half. The work is done by about fifty agents scattered all over the country. They are paid by salaries, and are nearly all the men in the employ of the exchange before the formation of the merger. It is to be said in all fairness, that from April 1, 1903, when the merger went into action, to January 1, 1904, the plan worked well.

THE TROUBLES OF TODAY.

From January 1, 1904, to nearly the end of March, this year, during which period about 12,000 cars of as fine oranges as ever left California were shipped, the markets of the East were demoralized beyond all previous experience, when the length of time is considered. Representatives of the merger claimed it would control 90 per cent of the crop and stop all competition in selling, and by this promise drew the growers into the combine. But when week after week came returns of a few dollars for whole carloads of beautiful fruit, and when thickly interlarded with these disappointing returns came calls for money to pay freight on other carloads of just as good fruit which did not yield returns sufficient to pay expenses, naturally there arose loud complaint from the growers, who were being ruined for the time being.

Before this the acute feeling between those in the exchange and those outside created some restraint, and less noise was heard. Besides so far as half the crop was concerned, the losses fell for the most part on the merchants who had bought the fruit in large quantities and the growers who had received fairly good money knew little of the trouble. The exchange people sang low and would not confess their misery. But this season the merger was to stop competition and high prices were to be assured, it was encouragingly stated. Moreover, the growers outside the exchange were all for the first time feeling the full effects of disastrous market conditions, and they naturally did not refrain from complaint.

SOME CONCLUSIONS.

The complaints became burdensome. Mass meetings began to be called. Agitation became acute. The trouble was taken up in the newspapers, the yellow sheets making the most noise of course. Could any cause of the trouble which might be remedied be found? With this thought in mind The Times sent an experienced man into the field to see what representative people in the industry had to say. The results of this investigation have been laid before the public during the past two weeks.

What has been discovered? First of all, that without a shadow of doubt the unprecedented cold weather which prevailed almost all over the East from the mountain plateau region to the Atlantic Coast has, as the shippers said, a great deal to do with the disastrous conditions in the market. The weather was unprecedented in rigor and in its duration. For ten weeks or more zero temperatures, down to 30 deg. below in places, prevailed, interspersed with blizzards of terrible severity. It is well established that for days at a time distribution of the fruit was impossible all along the line. This naturally created a glut in the market. And it was a glut of huge proportions, and made worse by being of damaged fruit. Hundreds of carloads of oranges of fine quality which left California in the best condition were frozen in transit. It was only human nature that the dealers should try to get freight out of this fruit, the freight charge being $325 to nearly $350 per car. This poor fruit made the buyers disinclined to purchase more of it. Thinking such a situation would not develop again, the shippers sent out further liberal shipments. These suffered the same fate as the first, and so it went for ten weeks.

It is easy to say "Why not stop shipping?" But when one looks at the enormous crop to be marketed and the improbability of meeting one freeze after another for so long a time, it will appear that the problem is not so readily solved.

SHIPPING POOR FRUIT.

But much as the weather had to do with it, few of those conversant with the subject will concede that that was all. It is generally held that too much low-grade fruit was sent out, and this fact bears hard on those who contend for the exchange and for the merger.

Those in the exchange, that is the managers, blame the growers, saying that these latter insist on sending out their poor fruit, even at the risk of getting no more than freight out of it. They say positively that they do not think any rules could be made to restrain this bad practice. The fact is with such a crop as that of this season it is suicidal for the growers to put sour fruit out in competition with good. During the period of depression no such stuff should have gone. The few independent shippers in the market had backbone enough to refuse point blank to ship poor fruit, telling the grower he would get "red ink" if he tried it, and, if that did not satisfy, stating that he had a duty to his eastern customers and that he would not spoil his trade by sending such fruit out under the circumstances.

CUTTING PRICES STILL.

In spite of the fact that the merger has had from 80 to 90 per cent. of the whole crop in all localities under its control, and in spite of the cruelly low prices prevailing, there is no shadow of doubt that price-cutting still went on—it is here the same old story. Each side charges the other with this sin. But the exchange people can no longer escape the responsibility of this disastrous practice. Besides the fact that the few independent shippers in the field had not more than 2000 cars of fruit in thirteen weeks, compared with five times as many in the hands of the merger, and in spite of the fact that nearly all this independent fruit was under the direct control of the union, and that so small an amount of fruit could not greatly affect the market, and that the owner would scarcely sacrifice his own fruit to spite the exchange, it is in evidence from men on the inside of the exchange that that body does, and always has, cut prices to ruin the "independent" and coerce all growers to join the exchange. This is a grave fault, and sufficient in the minds of many growers to condemn the exchange out of hand, or at least to condemn those who manage its affairs.

THIS COERCION BUSINESS.

The matter of coercion merits more attention. The reporter is bound to say that there exists absolute malignity in the minds of many exchange managers against the people who will not join them. They become red in the face as they actually gloat over the sufferings of those outside. Some of the best men in the community say, with unbecoming spleen, "I am glad they are getting it hard and often. They let us hold the umbrella and would not help us."

On all sides one hears of this coercion. With unwise zeal and with a bitterness alien to sound business principles the eastern buyer as well as the California grower has been hectored, boycotted, threatened and, where possible, punished, for buying fruit outside that offered by the exchange, in antagonism against California oranges. They have gone far afield to find other oranges with which at once to keep up their own business and at the same time "play even" with the exchange.

This is the more acute in proportion to the number of inexperienced and unwise agents in the employ of the exchange. This is a question hard to answer. Many with personal knowledge of the subject say that more than a few of the eastern agents in the employ of the exchange are young men, of the dullish, "smart Aleck" type and that their influence is pernicious.

SOMEWHAT PERSONAL.

There is another matter in this connection, which one would rather leave out if he could. It is due to all to say that there is much personal suspicion as to the man at the head of the exchange. He is a person of rather masterful disposition, and he gets a very large salary. Some say $15,000 a year, and that is probably correct. How much his disposition has to do with the matter of making antagonism and how much his salary has to do with creating jealousy is hard to say. But, not only outside, but inside the exchange, one encounters bitter enmity to him personally. His connection with a car line in former years, and the unfortunate way in which the illegal rebates paid by the railroad had to be handled, lend aid to these suspicions. When Porter Brothers' Company of Chicago recently failed it came out that the firm in ten years got $800,000 in rebates from railroads. The exchange manager has acknowledged the distribution of only $175,000 of rebates to the growers.

THE RAILROADS.

It has also been brought out that the railroads are now hauling trains of forty cars by powerful engines, over roads costing much less than those of twenty-five years ago, in lighter cars carrying 240 to 295 boxes, as compared with trains of fifteen cars each holding only 360 boxes. The railroads still charge the same price for hauling the crop. The officials of the road plead that the service called for is almost equal to that of passenger trains, and that the cars have to come back empty. To this it is answered that the train service is not given, twice that schedule being surpassed in the actual time consumed, and that the cars do not come back empty.

REMEDY PROPOSED.

For all this trouble two plans are before the growers. The exchange says come in to its organization, and be saved. But the exchange has a five-year contract with the California Citrus Union under which the former is not to take in any more, even if there were any wanting to get in. There does not seem to be many willing to risk breaking in.

The other plan is to market the crop here on the spot, at auction, or otherwise, let the growers get their money spot cash, and leave the buyers to ship and market the crop in their own way. This is the way every other farm product in the country is sold.

FUTURE PROSPECT.

Whatever is the outcome of all this trouble and its attendant agitation the man of wisdom will say to the growers: "Keep cool. Do not worry for the future. The territory of the world where good oranges grow is extremely limited. It is nearly all taken up. The tropics do not produce good oranges. The climate is too warm, and too moist. The fruit is too spongy, too sweet, too perishable. Whatever there is of it is all out of the way before the California crop is ready to market. Remember if low prices prevail for a while there are a great many trees here at home in low, damp, heavy soils. An alfalfa crop would pay better than oranges in such localities three years out of five. It will be a clear case of the survival of the fittest."

The area of high, porous, warm soils, with water enough, is very limited here. Such soils and exposures produce clean oranges, smooth, thin-skinned, fine texture and palatable. It will pay to take good care of such soils. There may be an off year now and then, but most years will be good.

"PROCLAIM," SAYS NEWITT.

WOULD ADVERTISE ORANGES AS BREAKFAST FOOD.

Presents a Scheme for Raising Twenty-five Thousand Dollars and Recommends That It be Expended in Publicity in Some Particular Field in East as an Experiment.

"Give advertising a chance and it will create a demand for all the oranges that all the growers of Southern California can produce."

The foregoing statement is from J. C. Newitt of Los Angeles, who is one of the great generals in the field of publicity. Through the press of the country he would stimulate a greater appetite for the orange, and promote it as a healthful and appetizing breakfast food.

"The orange is unquestionably the most healthful and delicious fruit grown in North America," said Mr. Newitt yesterday. "There is no good reason why the orange should not be on the breakfast table of every home in the land during six or seven months of the year. As a breakfast dish it discounts all the health foods that ever made fortunes for shrewd advertisers. The orange is meat and drink for the invalid and convalescent. As a tonic and appetizer no millionaire manufacturer of patent medicine ever made anything to compare with it. For puddings, ices and desserts of a hundred sorts, what is there more temptingly inviting than the orange? And the people of the East are being left to find out all about these things for themselves.

"Mr. Post of Battle Creek has made six or eight millions of dollars with his Cereal Coffee and other preparations in about as many years. Suppose oranges had been advertised in the same businesslike way Mr. Post has educated the public to buy his breakfast food and his coffee. What would have been the effect on the orange market of today? There is not a business man in the State of California who has ever used advertising that would not tell you the orange business would be on the boom.

"Of course advertising cannot prevent a shortage of cars, make a difference in the routing or rectify any of the other ills which are now being discussed, but advertising can and will create a demand for and raise the price of every box of fruit marketed under an advertising campaign of education.

"I am told the present crop is estimated at about ten millions of boxes of oranges and lemons. On a basis of one cent per box this would create an advertising fund of $100,000; at one-half cent per box a fund of $50,000; at one-quarter cent per box a fund of $25,000. Take your largest growers; few of them have crops in excess of one hundred cars; this means, I understand, about thirty-six thousand boxes. One one-quarter cent per box the advertising would cost the grower of this large crop about $90.

"Suppose you take this smaller figure of one-quarter cent per box and raise $25,000. Select a certain section of the United States to make a test; pick out the best newspapers in that district and work the experiment for two years. If the section selected is not too large, the $25,000 would make the two years' campaign; if a larger area was covered it would probably require $25,000 per year. Such a test as this cannot fail to be decisive, especially if the ground were well selected, and the trade in that territory well looked after.

"Let me give you an actual case in point. Five years ago the firm of Bishop & Co. of this city appropriated about $1000 for making the experiment of advertising their fruit products in the eastern market. New York City, about the hardest field in the world, was selected for the work. Their preserved fruits were advertised in the New York papers through the winter months, with the result that the number of houses handling Bishop's products on Manhattan Island increased eightfold in six months. The further result of this experiment has been to make Bishop's one of the large advertisers of the United States, their expenditure now running into the thousands monthly. Their goods are on sale in almost every town in the country, and foreign orders are constantly being received and filled. This is the work of only four years, growing from a very small beginning."

[AUTHENTIC REPORT.]

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE.

By Edward A. Kimball, of Chicago.

Introduction by Hon. Will A. Harris.—Hazard's Pavilion Crowded with Interested Listeners.

Edward A. Kimball, C.S.D., of Chicago, delivered a lecture on Christian Science yesterday afternoon, at Hazard's Pavilion in this city before a large audience composed of many of the leading and most intelligent citizens of Los Angeles, together with many ladies from outside towns who had come to their homes purposely to hear him. The speaker was introduced by Hon. Will A. Harris, in a graceful and impressive address, concerning Christian Science and its discoverer and Mrs. Eddy, its founder, of whom, Mr. Kimball was a personal friend. Mr. Kimball was a business man of Chicago, but his health failed. He tried all manner of remedies and traveled extensively in search of health, but without obtaining it, as he has said, he looked into Christian Science for many years. Finally, he resorted to Christian Science, in the case of others, in the hope that he would be healed. He was not disappointed with its teachings, by their application and study, that he became, and has since been, an earnest supporter of Mrs. Eddy and Christian Science. He is now regarded as one of its most able expounders, teachers and healers. For these reasons his lectures are looked forward to with great interest, and are largely attended, and this interest not only manifested by Christian Scientists, but by others, as attested by the attendance at Hazard's Pavilion, with its seating capacity of over three thousand, crowded by interested listeners. The closest attention was given throughout a most earnest, clear and able exposition of the subject by Mr. Harris's introductory remarks, and some of the lecture:

WILL A. HARRIS.

Mr. Harris said: As a Christian Scientist, but one of the denomination that numbers millions of people in America, and which is one of the purest, most human in the world, the profoundest veneration and love. The lofty character of Mrs. Eddy is a continuing inspiration to me, and elevated thought. Christian Science has become a factor in the accomplishment of much good in the world, no well informed person will deny. As I understand it, it is profound, underlying principle of the Christian Scientist is necessary among all to be natural and can be so. The Christian Scientist is not one who should exclude himself from the mind and thought only upon the good and beautiful. Surely one who would enjoy this beautiful world need be discouraged because he may think differently. Because he chooses to ignore evil can do no more to hide the knowledge of evil that exists in the world. It is not necessary, however, to discuss the principles of Christian Science. The distinguished gentleman who will address you needs no more ably than he is known, however much preparation. He will, however, from telling you of the world's greatest need, only a few years ago, Mrs. Eddy was one unknown and that Christian Science is doing great good.

I express my gratitude for the opportunity to present to you. The chairman introducing was Mr. Newton, a personal friend of mine, one of the citizens of Los Angeles, able, broad-minded man, who brings together in an organization the word is Christian Science, a new era for mankind. Central thought will be Permit me in introducing Mr. A. Kimball of Chicago to address you.

MR. KIMBALL.

Mr. Kimball in part:

I hope you may most readily grasp the import of this address, which is to contemplate for a moment upon which Christian science is the entrance.

The history of the human race may be written in a tragedy. If it were to be written in one long monosyllable, expressive of the misery, one would cry to God for relief, and the cry of defeat would tell the story of flowers, a little life, but beyond the foreshadowing of which is the

Why? Why different if we agree on these essentials?

The difference is in the amplification and application. It is in this respect that most religious sects and systems diverge from each other. There are hundreds of these sects. There are one hundred and forty Christian sects alone, many of which have been in the most violent antagonism towards each other. There is, therefore, no unity of religious belief with which we can compare Christian Science, but I shall explain where in it is different from all others.

In her effort to enlarge the human concept of the infinite God, Mrs. Eddy has added somewhat to the technical definitions of Deity, and affirms, among other things, that God is divine Mind and that this Mind is good.

God is either Mind or mindless. The Mind that is God, and which includes all wisdom, intelligence and science, is good. This Mind is the antipode of what the Bible calls the "carnal mind," or that which Mrs. Eddy designates "mortal mind," the mind of sin, which is enmity against God.

THE MIND WHICH WAS IN CHRIST

The science of mind declares that to the extent that man is governed by the divine Mind, he will manifest perfection, health, life, welfare, prosperity—the ampleness and completeness of harmonious existence. It was this Mind which was also in Christ; which cancelled temptation and sin, healed the sick, raised the dead, raised Jesus from the dead, and overcame the world, the flesh and the devil. "To be carnally minded is death." Sin and disease are the offspring of this carnal mind; they are no part of the nature or of the procurement of the divine Mind.

God is good, in nature, design, power, action, substance and operation. All that He has made and done is good. His laws are good, and He has already done everything that is essential to the supreme welfare of man.

Conversely we repudiate the effort to solve the mystery of evil by assuming that any part of it has been instituted by God, or that He needs to involve Himself in or with evil in any way or for any purpose, or that He does so involve Himself.

God is not only Life, but has ordained life and is the law of life and health for man. The theology of Christian Science is consistently parallel throughout with this declaration. It also declares that God has created man that he might have being, and not for the purpose of inflicting upon him inveterate agony and disease.

We repudiate all assumption that His law is the law of sin and death. Sickness is contrary to God, and God is contrary to it. God is the natural healer of the sick, and is able, willing and ever ready to save mortals from the evils imposed upon them by an utterly perverted sense of existence.

The supposition that God has induced the pangs and horrors of disease and death engenders a fear of Him—a fear and alarm concerning the author and the law and the destiny of human life; a fear concerning the very foundation of existence. We Christian Scientists are no longer afraid of God or of His heaven, which we are learning is within us to the extent that we are governed by the Mind which was in Christ.

GOD NO LONGER UNKNOWN.

In Christian Science there is no longer an unknown God. No longer do the distorted graven images of human thought mask or hide from us the real God, who is altogether lovely, who is our dearest friend, whose help is ever available, whose grace is sufficient, and who created man that he might have life and peace. Christian Science promises to lead mankind to God through the highways of health and life instead of death. It promises to humanity, in the name of God, not the doubtful felicity of the grave, but a sensible, practical dispensation of good, now. It promises to incline men naturally and willingly to a more spiritual life, which will satisfy them; and it promises that as they wend their way to a sure heaven this Christ-truth will be the Christ way-shower through all the mazes and besetments of an evil sense and an evil age, until, with undeviating trust and confidence, they abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

We disagree with others concerning the nature of evil. Mrs. Eddy knows full well that "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap," and that sin inevitably imposes suffering on its victim; nevertheless, she declares that sin, sickness, and kindred evils are unreal, meaning thereby that they belong in the realm of the temporal, illegitimate, abnormal. They are the paraphernalia of mortal belief of the carnal mind—unlawful, unrighteous, and unnecessary—monstrosities of unnatural existence.

The world generally believes that evil is an enduring entity having a basis in truth; that it is as actual and substantial as good, or God, and that its indestructible immortality will be manifested in an eternal hell and devil. If this were true, and evil as an entity were consequently indestructible, then the entreaty of Jesus to resist and overcome it must needs have been mockery. But, on the contrary, the career of Jesus is in demonstration of the power of something to abolish evil, its presence and presence. Is it a thinkable proposition that our Master sought to equip a mortal man to destroy something that God has made, and is therefore a part of infinity? Do Christ and Christianity ask of you something that cannot be done?

Picture for a moment a family which includes a violently insane person. Ask the other members if they consider the insanity real, and the answer will be "Real! why of course it is real, it is the only thing in sight most of the time." Now suppose that this person is cured of insanity; what becomes of it? It is now a nonentity is it not? Was it at any time other than an abnormity, a deranged sense of that which is an entity and which is normal?

Christian Science explains that sickness is of a kindred unreal nature and is to be obliterated by the same process whereby everything that has no right to exist or continue is to become extinct through Christ and Christianity.

If insanity and sickness are real, then God, who includes all reality, must have made them. If He made them and bestows or sends them, then it is a sin to try to get well or to want to get well.

COMPLETE SALVATION THROUGH CHRIST.

Concerning the divine Christ there is among men much conflict of opinion. Most Christians believe he was the Son of God, and was divinely commissioned; that his mission was to preach the gospel of reform and regeneration, to set forth the way and promise of salvation after death, by reason of his mediatorial atonement. It is believed that, incidentally, he did many mighty works. It is also affirmed that he is the only Messiah or Saviour, and that his way is the only way of salvation.

Christian Scientists believe all this, and yet their sense of Christianity differs from that of all others. We know that Christ was and is divine; is our Savior or Messiah; is the "Way," and we can prove it. We are confident that when this way is scientifically understood and becomes scientifically operative, it will manifest its saving efficacy by transforming the race.

We believe that Christ Jesus was the representative of God to humanity; that He was the voice of wisdom and intelligence, and that he knew more about God, man and the universe than all other people combined. We believe He came to do the will of God and to fulfill law. What God, and what law? The God that is good and whose law is the law of life, health, harmony and holiness. We believe He came "to seek and to save that which was lost," and that He found that "which was lost" when He found the sinner and the sick man. We believe that He came to "destroy the works of the devil," and that He was "about His Father's business" while He was doing it. Unless He was destroying the works of the devil when He healed the sick, there must have been a time when He was not in the fulfillment of His mission, for He gave much attention to the cure of disease, and Himself declared that such healing was a part of His "works." We believe this healing was natural and lawful; that all His works were done in exquisite accord with the eternal law of a changeless God. We believe that the teaching of Christian Science, though Mrs. Eddy removes the ministry of Jesus from the realm of mystery and brings it within the range of law, order and a scientific modus operandi. We believe that God and His Christ are too wise to be unlawful or to procure or induce or make use of that which is in contravention of law. We believe that the unlimited divine volition does not need to upset or undo any natural law in order to do good.

We believe that the Christ ministry is an object-lesson in demonstration of the immanent, ever-present and ever-available power of Spirit, God, to destroy evil. We believe that Jesus manifested the supremacy of spiritual law which is the law of life, and its power over the fictitious law of sin and death.

AN UNMYSTERIOUS SALVATION.

Christian Science teaches that this proof—the deeds, the achieved results, the mighty works—is to illustrate the way of salvation to them that need salvation, and that Christian salvation is for the sick man as well as the sinner. All this is different from the belief that His work was miraculous, meaning that it was mysterious and in the way of intervention or violation of law and nature.

Jesus never intimated that His work was mysterious. On the contrary He indicated the universal nature of the divine animus by declaring: "These works shall ye do." The contrary beliefs of men which have filtered their way down through the dark ages lead to the most absurd conclusions and tax to the utmost the credulity of man. They presuppose that, after promising for 1000 years that a Messiah should come to save a suffering world, God arranged and carried out a plan of which all future generations should have right to say, "It is an impenetrable mystery." They require people to believe that Jesus largely devoted Himself to mighty works which were of no utility to subsequent generations of men, and which have exhausted their service when people are induced to believe that it was according to the divine nature for God to heal the sick man in one age and refuse or neglect to heal him in a subsequent age. They require men to believe that God and Christ, who were willing to save that which was lost, limited that salvation to the sinner and discriminated against the sick man. They require us to split the ministry of Christ Jesus in two; decide that the healing work was without scientific or universal avail; that it was nothing we can possibly understand; and lastly that Jesus did not mean what He said when He declared that Christians who understood His Christianity must preach the gospel and heal the sick, and that they could do it. They require us to repudiate the works of Jesus as the legitimate interpreters of His mission and His words. They require us to believe that in saying "heal the sick," he who shows the way asks us to heal with drugs, a way which is contrary to his way.

If, instead of regarding evil as a mysterious entity, men had understood the science which detects and correctly designates the phenomena of evil, such misconception of Christian salvation would long since have been dispated.

Sin and disease are in immediate kinship. They are allied as cause and effect. The scriptural statement that "through sin came death" is scientific. Every physician knows, or ought to know, that anger will arrest digestion, that grief, revenge, and envy will impair the integrity of the body.

If Jesus came to save from one, then He came to save from both. He could not possibly save from one without saving from the other. He clearly indicated this to those who heard though they could not understand.

When Jesus healed the sick did He destroy the work of God or devil? Was it the mission of Jesus to destroy the work of God? If sickness is the work of devil, then is God for or against it? If God is against and contrary to it, are His laws for or against it? If His laws are against it are they available to man? Has God created a man who is without possible recourse to His law and power? If He has, then why pray for an impossibility?

THE KEY TO THE SCRIPTURES.

Mrs. Eddy answers all these questions and hundreds of others in her text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and thereby reconciles reason to God, and dispels the mystery which has obscured the science of life.

People throughout all the Christian centuries have differed concerning the meaning of the Bible, indeed, in behalf of the quarrel about the Bible and of the conflict of creeds, millions have gone down to violent death. Our tenets declare, "We take the inspired word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal life." Like many others, we believe that the Bible has not been dictated word for word by God. We believe with Paul that the things of God and the real substance of the Bible must be spiritually discerned.

Most people have commentaries, or helps to the study of the Bible. We have a commentary, or key, in our text-book. With historic and characteristic instinct the people whose love is for their own alone do not like ours, and even say it is dangerous. I will not linger long to discuss the merits of this book now. Since studying the Bible in its light, we have no desire to kill any one or quarrel with any one about religion. We have learned to love the right of every man to strive for heaven, according to his own inspiration. We are taught that it is abominable in the sight of God and a decent manhood to denounce, persecute, or molest a man who does not agree with our religious propaganda.

This book encourages us to live according to the commandments and the Sermon on the Mount, and in obedience to the highest conceivable moral standard. It teaches us to be loving, charitable, merciful, meek, and pure, and as followers of Christ Jesus to obey every mandate of God and Christ, even to the extent of forsaking sin, preaching the gospel, and healing the sick. We are taught to love and to rely on one infinitely good God, who is love; and that we may trust Him to the uttermost; indeed, we are led to believe we cannot trust God too much nor expect too much from infinite love. We are taught to rely upon the supremacy of spirit and to know that no other reliance and no lack of reliance is acceptable to God or of avail to mortals. We are taught that the mission of Christ is in demonstration of an un-mysterious salvation, and that we may expect more and gain more through Christ than if we were to minimize the scope and efficacy of his mission.

If to be thus obedient, or to be too explicit in obedience, be dangerous, then we are, indeed, the most dangerous people that encumber the earth.

Read all the books on philosophy since time began and they will not equip you to cure one case of fibroid tumor. Read all the commentaries, sermons and books on theology, and they will not enable you to heal one case of locomotor ataxia, in its worst form. Read all the medical books and all other books and you cannot, as a result thereof, cure one instance of malignant cancer. This book Science and Health has taught people how to cure hundreds of such cases, and they have done it.

MAN'S LAWFUL DOMINION.

We differ concerning the nature of man. The Bible declares that God made man in His own image and likeness and gave him dominion over all the earth. Do you know of any such man? No. Is there something wrong with God or with the man? The trouble is with man, and he confesses it by declaring himself a fallen man (fallen from some high estate,) and by his ceaseless prayer and effort to get back. Theology and philosophy in general declare that he cannot get back except through the door of death.

Jesus's theology was indeed divine. He was Himself a consummate theologian. He ushered Christianity upon the scene of humanity by means of preaching and healing. His works were in demonstration of His theology. They were essentially incidental to His Christianity, and the same works are essential signs of Christianity now.

In comparing Christian Science with other systems of curative endeavor, I remind you first that there are many such systems and much disagreement concerning theory and practice. For example: One school of medical practice advocates the use on the average of one hundred million times as much medicine as is administered by the other school.

CONFLICTING MEDICAL SYSTEMS.

I shall speak of several particulars in which Christian Science is fundamentally different from all other systems.

The matter physician holds to the theory that disease is natural and inevitable; that although he may in some instances prevent or cure, nevertheless disease, per se, is sure to master him and his patient ultimately. By way of admission of the inadequacy of the system to cope with disease, he exhibits a long list of fatal or incurable types thereof. He therefore advances to the conflict with sickness with more or less uncertainty as to his natural right or ability to succeed.

Christian Science declares that disease is unnatural and should be resisted, and repudiates the theory that, from a scientific standpoint, disease is incurable. Jesus, the only perfect healer, actually demolished the theory by healing the multitude of all manner of diseases.

The practice of Christian Science is in its infancy. No pretence is made that such proficiency and efficiency have been attained by practitioners as to preclude any failure, but already this practice has resulted in the cure of practically every disease that is included in the long list of incurables. In other words, Christian Science can heal all diseases that drugs have ever healed and all that drugs have never healed; hence the Christian Scientist contemplates sickness as something to be has a right to cure and ought to be able to cure.

The medical profession have practically united in the admission that "concerning the essence or primary cause of disease little is known; indeed, nothing at all." It is generally assumed, however, that matter alone is causation. There is an exception to the rule in the case of homeopathy, which designates certain abnormal and unrighteous mental conditions—sin, etc.—as causative, and affirms that anger arrests digestion; that grief, sorrow, etc., impair or degrade the physical condition. According to Christian Science the enigma of the ages; namely, What is the primary cause of disease? can be solved only by entering the mental realm.

Did you ever see a person turn pale because of fear? Have you known a person to turn red because of anger? Have you ever heard that one has died because of fright? Do you not know that the thing which happens is this: that such mental activities operate as causation; affect the nervous and circulatory systems and induce congestion—the evidence of physical impairment or degeneracy?

It must be, surely, that you know that mental conditions affect the body, and because you know this and should act accordingly, I ask if there is any scientific relationship between grief or jealousy as a cause and a mud bath as a cure. If you had a patient whose incorrigible hatred had finally caused liver trouble, and the medical books prescribed a mustard plaster, would you apply the plaster to the liver which is innocent of offense, or to the hatred which is the sole cause?

If the case is to be cured at all, ought not the remedy to reach the cause and cancel it? Do you think that a plaster will do it? If not, then consider the Mind which was in Christ and which transforms man by means of righteousness. Consider the curative system of Christ Jesus which clearly recognised sin as a cause of sickness and administered the emollient of holiness which divine Love has prepared in the laboratory of eternal life.

THE FICTITIOUS NATURE OF FEAR.

In consequence of ignorance and superstition, the universal mortal man is afraid of the very foundation of his being. He is afraid of God and heaven, he is afraid of devil and hell; afraid of his own body, of everything he does and has, and of all that exists on earth. This universal fear constitutes a universal and primary cause of disease, and the conclusion cannot be resisted that the curative system which fails to recognise it, cannot intelligently abolish its effects.

There are two books in the world which entreat humanity to know that fear is illegimate and can be "cast out." These books are the Bible and Science of Health. The latter, with much elaboration, explains the fabulous nature of fear and gives the reason and rule for its elimination.

Will not those of you who are Christians consider as to whether or not it would have been a mockery for the Saviour of the world compassionately to implore men to resist fear if it really has a scientific, inherent right to infest humanity, and therefore is irresistible?

The matter physician declares that the proper therapeutic or curative agency is to be found in matter or in the use of material means.

The drugging system did not originate in a civilized, enlightened, or Christian age. According to its own history of itself, it is the offspring of paganism. Since its birth, forty centuries ago, men have endeavored to reduce the system and practice to a science, and they not only admit they have failed, but declare that the practice is largely tentative, by way of expediency; is experimental, or accidental.

In behalf of the drugging theory mankind has literally swallowed everything on earth, hoping to placate or obstruct disease, and is still sicker and has more diseases than ever before. Concerning the theory and practice of four thousand years, it is to be said that nearly all of it is condemned by the practice and theory of today, and it is prophetically expected by the physician of this generation that his practice and methods will be repudiated by the next generation. The "History of Four Thousand Years of Medicine" does not disclose one single element of pure science. Moreover, there is scarcely a postulate that has been allowed to remain unimpeached or undisturbed.

Now comes the utterance of Christian Science, which is the Science of Mind. It declares that everything you have or know, all that means religion; politics, art, music, sociology, education, finance, business, government, the daily life and minutiae of your existence; all is in consequence of thought. Thought ruptures empires, wages war, obliterates nations. Thought is the greatest potentiality that the mortal knows of or is moved by. The stage of human existence which Oliver Wendell Holmes calls a "disorder" has been dissolated by evil mental conditions and must become normal and righteous through the "transformation of Mind." Mindless matter is not equal to the task. It has no intelligence of its own and an all-wise God needs not to filter Himself through non-intelligence in order to accomplish for a sick man all that he needs or to which he is entitled.

We think the Bible is to be credited, wherein it indicates that God is the natural healer of all our diseases, and we know that this God is Mind and not matter.

How did Jesus—the only perfect healer whom history affords—how did He heal the sick? Medicine had been in use for twenty centuries. Was it mind or matter? Christianity would collapse in the admission that it was not Mind.

It is urged that all this is transcendental because contrary to the senses. So is the hope of immortality, so is the belief in God and heaven. The senses testify to the extinction of man by death and the annihilation of his individuality, and they do not afford an atom of evidence of God as Spirit.

It is decided that Christian Science practice is intangible and is objectionable because there is no visible or palpable animus or modus operandi. Do you know why the earth revolves, why your heart beats, why you can wink your eyes, or do anything? No. Does any physical scientist understand the primary impulsion of your every act? No, none on earth ever knew. I might spend years in bringing to your attention the everyday things of your life, and in proving to you that you do not understand the modus operandi of one in a thousand.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS TANGIBLE.

Christian Scientists who have been the first to heal malignant cancers, know more about the modus than you know about the circulation of the blood or your ability to walk.

Why did it not come sooner? It did come sooner. Jesus understood this healing Christianity; declared and demonstrated it. The people did not fully understand Him and He told them they could not, but He prophetically declares the time will come when ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. Since then men have prayed that it might be revealed, and now we believe it has been revealed.

Why did not everything come sooner? Why did not Adam have a telephone, a steamship, a piano, and the thousand other things of today? Simply because he didn't know enough. In consequence of law, substance and possibility, all these were possible to him if he had only known enough to make the discovery. The principle and rule of Christian Science mind-healing were before Adam. They only needed to be discovered and applied.

After this brief and fragmentary allusion to these differences I ask what think you of the difference?

It really means the supremacy of God and the impotence of error. It means life and health instead of sickness and doom. It means joy instead of tears. It means a lawful Christ in demonstration of a palpable salvation for a man who ought to be like his Maker.

SAN DIEGO.

BUCKING FISH TRUST.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, April 10.—The Fishermen's Union, which is trying to dictate to the marketmen the schedule of prices for fish for the ensuing year, is making slow progress. The marketmen say they lost money on the last year schedule and refuse to sign up on the same basis. The Federated Trades has indorsed the position of the fishermen, and the fight is on in earnest. The fishermen have formed a compact, one of the provisions being that only one of their number shall go out each day. The result will be, providing no settlement is made, that the marketmen will ship their fish in here from the north until fishermen can be secured to sell them fish at living prices.

ONE-VOTE PRECINCT.

The District Attorney has notified the Supervisors that the proposition of doing away with the voting precinct at North Island, Coronado Beach, where there is but one voter, cannot be done. He holds that the Board would have no legal power to deprive an American citizen of his right to participate in the government, and that there is no alternative for the Board but to maintain the precinct as it is at present established. The voter in question is the superintendent of the marine ways, who for years has been the sole occupant of the precinct.

NEWS NOTES.

E. G. Mellem, aged 48 years, died yesterday on the train near Albuquerque, en route from here to St. Paul, Minn. He was accompanying the remains of his son who died in this city February 22. The father was accompanied on the trip East by his daughter and one son.

Lee Knight is a fugitive from justice, having committed forgery the second time. The first time he was committed to the care of the Sheriff as probation officer, this being at the request of a local philanthropic woman. It was not long, however, before he had forged the name of the woman and skipped the country.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan closed a very successful series of meetings in this city this evening. The series has been held under the auspices of the Pastors' Union.

Hotel Green, Pasadena, will receive guests until about May 10th.

SICK MAN ROBBED BY NEGRO BRUTES.

EX-POLICE JUSTICE EDWARD H. SWEENEY of San Francisco, who returned to the Nadeau yesterday from Yuma, where he has been sojourning for his health, was held up and robbed in his room in that river town last week, but succeeded in bluffing the intruders out of a large sum of money which he had in his pocket.

The former official came South some weeks ago in an extremely precarious condition, and finding no relief here, went to Yuma. There he engaged a colored man to come to his room in the hotel nightly and give him massage treatments.

One night early last week this attendant entered Sweeney's room, followed by another negro, and as soon as the door was closed, drew a revolver, and under pain of death if an outcry was made, demanded that Sweeney stand and deliver.

"We want some of that soft money of yours, Judge, and we want it quick, without no trouble," was their ultimatum.

A sick man alone in a room at the point of a gun behind which were two desperate negroes was in no shape to resist. The robbers threatened to "beat him up," if he did not produce ready cash, but he parleyed with them until he got them "rattled."

"I haven't any money with me, boys," he said; "it's all in the safe downstairs; you'll have to see the hotel people about it."

The negroes threatened with gun and fists, but the San Franciscan kept cool and talked them off. A large sum of money reposed in one of the pockets of the trousers he wore, but his bluff worked, and the negroes turned their attention to searching for valuables in the room. They took everything easily portable except the clothes he wore, including a diamond stud valued at $150 and every bit of wearing apparel to be found.

They then fled and made their escape through the darkness before the alarm could be given.

A few days later the two robbers were caught in Phoenix and returned to Yuma for trial. One was sentenced Saturday to fifteen years in the penitentiary, and the other will be sentenced today. When brought into court they were arrayed in the clothes they had stolen, and their victim easily identified them by the laundry marks on his own apparel which he found on their backs.

Former Judge Sweeney is seriously ill at the Nadeau, and his friends express doubts of his recovery. He is suffering with consumption.

CORONADO BEACH.

TENT CITY PLANS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

HOTEL DEL CORONADO, April 10.—Manager Zander of Tent City has installed his force of clerks at the Tent City office and plans are maturing rapidly for the opening of the city. Many concessions are being granted. The ground rental for tents has been reduced nearly one-half. Tent floors owned by individuals must be removed to new locations before May 1.

Yesterday's arrivals from Pasadena, Los Angeles and vicinity, included: R. E. Fast, George Lawrence, Pasadena; W. L. Barnwell and wife, Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Walker and party of Boston, who have been here several weeks, will leave for the East tomorrow.

MURPHY KEPT GRIP.

Thought Old Man Had a Design to Stampede Meeting—"Catching" Murphyisms.

Francis Murphy had one of the severest tests put to his tactful handling of impromptu speakers, at his meeting last night in Blanchard Hall, that has come to him in Los Angeles.

An old gentleman slipped to the side of the gospel temperance hero after the meeting was in progress and put in a request to be permitted to say a word. Murphy was afraid of him, but finally gave him the opportunity, not failing, however, to get him by the hand as he approached the front of the platform. Murphy held tight to the old man so that he could choke him off in case he "took the bit in his teeth."

The speaker rebelled and said: "Let go my hand."

"Oh, no," said Murphy, "I'm afraid you might fly away."

The scene was funnier than it sounds, and the audience roared while Murphy kept his grip. It turned out that the old man was not really loaded with a long-winded speech, but suspicions were aroused because he had invited himself to the platform. He simply felt impelled, he said, by divine power to say to the people that it was their duty to come to Christ, and having said it in a few words he was satisfied.

Murphy's subject was "Mercy," and he shot off quite a number of Murphyisms. He read from his Bible that it is man's duty to feed his enemy if he is a-hungered.

"Yes," said the speaker, "there's a whole lot of us wearing ourselves out carrying cold victuals to our hungry enemies. More likely we're hanging up hammocks around the place to make ourselves more comfortable.

"I believe in a merciful God; I've got away from the idea of an attorney. I used to think of God as a kind of Chief Justice.

"We've go to be heroic with ourselves to understand the goodness of God.

"Don't give the boy a lecture when he's down; take him to the hospital first and preach to him afterwards."

There were three good music numbers last night. J. W. Eccleston sang, accompanied by his wife on the piano and with violin obligato by Mrs. Lynch. It was a beautiful and effective number. Miss Barrow, in a rich, strong contralto, sang "O Love Divine," and D. A. Budlong sang as a baritone solo "The Ninety and Nine," arranged with variations.

Many persons signed the pledge at the close of the meeting.

ANGLO-FRENCH TREATY.

PARIS, April 10.—The full text of the Anglo-French treaty is published tonight. The main features of the treaty have been fully covered in the summaries given by the Associated Press dispatches. One clause of the treaty pledges the French government to communicate to Great Britain any agreement entered into between France and Spain on the subject of Morocco.

AT THE CITY'S GATES.

UNIVERSITY.

UNIVERSITY is to have another new business block. G. G. Force is the builder and it is to be situated on the corner of West Thirty-seventh street and Vermont avenue. The building will be two stories in height. The lower floor will be occupied by A. P. Smith & Sons as an automobile and bicycle manufactory and the second floor will be built for housekeeping purposes.

Peter Tucker, the Jefferson-street blacksmith, sustained a painful injury Friday afternoon. He was working with a ratchet screwdriver, when the handle broke, allowing the sharp instrument to enter his right eye. It is feared the accident will cause the loss of the eye. Saturday night Tucker's little six-year-old boy, Charlie, took a dose of cresolene, thinking it was cough syrup. He was taken at once to Dr. Kistler's residence, where, after being worked upon for several hours, he recovered consciousness. It is considered that he has an even chance for recovery. To Mr. Tucker these misfortunes seem unusually severe, for less than two weeks ago he buried his wife.

Thursday and Friday of this week the district convention of the Epworth League will be held in the University Methodist Church. Rev. F. G. H. Stevens will be the speaker Thursday evening, and Friday night Rev. George B. Smythe will deliver an address. Business sessions will be held morning and afternoon of each day.

Miss Enid E. Ross of No. 1235 West Thirty-eighth street has issued invitations for a luncheon to be given on Thursday in honor of Miss Mary Sheldon.

Adolph Shultz of the Hall tract leaves this week for Germany to visit his mother. He will return about the middle of November.

Harry B. Tilden and William McConnell left Saturday for High River, Alberta, B. C.

A. Ingraham and wife of No. 3000 West Adams street will leave this week for an extended European tour, visiting France, Germany and Austria. They will also take a trip up the Nile, stopping at points of interest along the way.

City Electrician Manahan has moved into to his new home at No. 3222 Royal street.

The annual local oratorical contest is to be held in the college chapel next Friday night. Five young followers of Demosthenes will compete for forensic laurels. The winner will represent U.S.C. in the intercollegiate contest to be held in May between Pomona, Occidental and the University of Southern California. On the 28th a debate will be held with the University of the Pacific.

The funeral of Mrs. Charity Twiss, who died Friday at her late residence, No. 811 West Thirty-eighth street, after an illness for about a month, was held yesterday afternoon at the Methodist Church. The auditorium was filled, many people from outside towns attending. Rev. Dr. Healy assisted by Rev. T. E. Robinson, officiated. The deceased was 59 years of age, and was one of the earliest residents of University. Interment was made at Rosedale.

A number of young people held a dance in Ryan's Hall, corner of Jefferson street and Wesley avenue, Thursday night.

J. F. Seymour, Jr., formerly of the college, was admitted to practice law by the State Supreme Court last week.

W. B. Colton and wife, who have been spending the past week with Mrs. A. F. Shideler, corner of Wesley avenue and West Thirty-eighth street, have returned to their home in Oregon.

S. L. Rogers and family of Arizona have taken rooms at No. 841 West Portieth street.

Forty candidates were initiated into La Fiesta Court, I.O.F., last Wednesday night. The ceremonies were held in the court's hall in the Lougheed Block, corner of Union avenue and West Twenty-third street.

The old building, owned by the fire department, on the corner of Jefferson street, has been removed to the corner of Orchard avenue and Jefferson street. Work has been commenced on the new engine-house on the old site.

B. B. Long died at his late residence, No. 912 West Thirty-ninth street, last Monday. He was 81 years of age and formerly of Waterloo, Ind. The remains were taken there for burial.

George Tucker of West Jefferson street is confined to his room with an attack of neuralgia.

Miss Ethel and Maynard Ewan, who have been spending the winter at University, left last week for Denver.

The Southwest Realty Company has let the contract for three two-story houses on the corner of Wesley avenue and West Thirty-ninth street.

C. C. Osborne has purchased a six-room cottage on Royal street, between West Thirty-second and Jefferson streets. Mr. Osborne is recently from Boston, and the property was secured for a home.

PICO HEIGHTS.

The recital given by Miss Mabel M. Clark of No. 2540 Sepulveda street in the Masonic Hall last Friday evening was a notable event in Pico Heights society circles. Miss Clark is a graduate of the Dobinson School of Art and Expression. She was assisted by Misses Bianaca and Lydia Tesch, Bernice Marcher, Goldie Foshia, Iva Reed and Mae MacGowan. A vocal solo was given by Miss White, a pupil of Mme. Bishop, and a pretty sketch, entitled "An Automobile Scene," was presented.

Mrs. Fred White, nee Hunter, who formerly resided at No. 2540 Pico street, died at Burbank Saturday morning. She leaves a husband and a son 8 years of age.

ANGELENO HEIGHTS.

W. H. Moffitt has been awarded the contract for the improvement of Holliday street, from Bellevue avenue to Ionia street.

It has been finally decided by the parishioners of St. Athanasius Church that the old name will be retained. For some months past there has been a discussion on this point, but at a recent meeting of the parishioners it was decided that historical interests were favored by keeping the name of St. Athanasius, by which the first Episcopal Church in Los Angeles was known.

The second quarterly meeting of the Pacific branch of the Methodist Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held in the Epworth Methodist Church, corner of Centennial street and Bellevue avenue, next Wednesday. A luncheon will be served at noon. Miss Anna Stone, the Chinese woman, who has been interesting large gatherings in various parts of the city, will take part in the programme, and this will be the last opportunity to hear her sing, as she intends to start for China immediately after this meeting. The executive meeting of this branch will take place tomorrow at 2:30 in the First Methodist Church.

THE SOUTHWEST.

The West Adams Methodist Sunday-school, the youngest Methodist Sunday-school in Los Angeles, has reached an enrollment of one hundred and eighteen. HIGHLAND PARK.

Work has been commenced on the $2700 residence for Wesley Wright at No. 132 East Avenue 58. It is to be a two-story structure of seven rooms.

Last Tuesday work was begun on the street improvements in the Hampton Terrace tract. This will be one of the highest residence locations in the city, and the building restrictions will make it a place of attractive homes. T. J. Hampton will build for his own home a ten-room residence, and F. M. Tyler will erect a $3000 bungalow, while plans are being made for a $10,000 residence on three lots in one of the handsomest sections of the tract.

Avenue 60 is to have its official grade established from Pasadena avenue to Hays avenue; and a similar work is to be done for Avenue 59 from Pasadena avenue to Echo street; and Avenue 61 from Pasadena avenue to Echo street, and Echo street from Avenue 59 to Avenue 61.

At the last regular communion service in the Highland Park Presbyterian Church twenty-six members were received by the pastor, Dr. S. P. Berry. Twenty-one of these came by letter from other churches.

WILL OPEN IN SEPTEMBER.

THAT IS J. R. MATHESON'S CLAIM FOR THE LANKERSHIM.

New Hostelry to Have an Equipment That Will Embody Every Unique Feature of the Great Hotels of the World—Will Open September First.

The opening of the newest of the downtown hotels of Los Angeles, "The Lankershim," has been definitely arranged. John R. Matheson, who has been engineering the deal with San Francisco and Los Angeles capitalists, has completed every detail of incorporation and the work of making the new hotel ready for the public will be commenced at once. September 1 is designated as opening day.

"In appointment and furnishings, the Lankershim," Mr. Matheson said yesterday, "will eclipse anything now in operation in the city and every unique feature that has been worked into the St. Francis of San Francisco will have a place."

On the ground floor will be located the offices, dining-rooms and general parlor. On the second floor, ladies' parlors and reception rooms have been planned, all overlooking roof gardens. The hotel will contain 320 rooms.

In the formation of the Lankershim company the idea advocated by the California Promotion Committee is fully exemplified. Northern capitalists have measurably ceased to "hammer" Los Angeles. Instead, as in the case of the Lankershim company, northern capital has covered southern capital, 4 to 1, thus merging interests on a purely southern proposition and creating a basis for fraternal exchange.

Back of the Lankershim enterprise are several of the most prominent financiers of the State, some of them interested in similar ventures at San Francisco.

...D DRIVING CLUB DIFFICULTIES.

...AT CONSTITUTES A GENTLEMAN IN PASADENA?

...Going to Forage on Top of ... Wilson—Greek Colony Has ...—Puppy Reception at ...—Society Events at the ... of the Valley.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. ... Raymond avenue, April 11.—... seems to be difficulties to encounter in organizing a gentlemen's driving club—at least such is the case in this city. There is a race track, plenty of horses and all that, and those who know these things when they see them, but it seems that there is a wide difference of opinion as to what constitutes a gentleman.

Some time ago a driving club was organized at the home of Dr. Biron on Pasadena avenue. Among the prime organizers was Jack Baldwin, a relative of Lucky Baldwin of Santa Anita rancho, a place where there are fast horses. The club membership began to interest wealthy Pasadenans of rapid animals, C. C. Cravens, H. C. Merritt and others. In fact it was felt that the association could not stand unless all of them belonged.

Then the "gentleman" won't "jibe." Things are in the air because the club is on the ground floor. The driving club is somewhat wobbly as they get on its legs and be announced that Dr. I. W. Parker, one of the enthusiasts, is at work trying to get it made over to a certain extent.

There is no doubt among the business and professional men who enjoy racing," said Mr. Parker yesterday, "and I find them interested and ready to join. A number of gentlemen of means who have retired from active business also desire to identify themselves as in favor of the driving club. That it would be a benefit to the city all agree—as to what kind of men have constituted the membership. There seems to be the only question. Tournament Park and also the progressive citizen has risen to the occasion. Tournament Park be not used for pooling and gambling purposes." President Boynton of the Board of Trade, who is also secretary of the Tournament of Roses Association, says that he is in favor of that. Unless there is provision for the track it will be useless. Anyway, says Boynton, we have a set of standard measurements and therefore preclude real ...

CATALINA ISLAND.

WORK ON NEW STEAMER.

AVALON, April 10.—The Wilmington Transportation Company's new steamer Cabrillo is progressing famously, and now promises to be ready for commission at an earlier date than was originally fixed for it. The joiner work and paneling are completed, and she will be taken to San Francisco next Wednesday to receive her machinery, which is all complete and ready for installation. This is contracted to be done and the trial trip made within sixty days. Ten days afterwards it is expected the new steamer will be at her dock in San Pedro, all complete and ready for business, not later than June 15 or 20. Then an hour will be clipped off the time between San Pedro and Avalon and mal de mer will receive a knockout blow.

ALBATROSS FISHERS.

The U.S.S. steamer Albatross, Capt. Smith, of the U. S. Fish Commission, came into port last evening and will lie here until tomorrow when she will proceed northward. She has been fishing and dredging in the waters about Coronado, Clemente and Catalina islands for several weeks, and has brought up a lot of curious forms of marine animals. The officers visited the local aquarium and expressed great interest in the collection, only a few of which were new to them. One specimen, which Manager Phelps called the "needle fish," for want of a better name, proved entirely new, and they have begged the fish to add to the government's collection of rare fishes.

ISLAND VISITORS.

Col. Ed Dunham of Hotel Stewart, San Bernardino, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. S. H. Black and Mrs. F. W. Dunn, are at Hotel Metropole to escape the heat.

Miss Grace E. Mathes of Los Angeles is entertaining her sister, Mrs. R. R. Bowdle, and son of Detroit at Hotel Metropole for a week.

F. J. Robbiste of Redlands, A. A. Wigman and B. Wilkins of Boston are at the Metropole. They will do some fishing while here.

Hotel Green, Pasadena, will receive guests until about May 10th.

DOWNEY.

NEWS SUMMARY.

DOWNEY, April 10.—At the meeting of the Cemetery Association Saturday afternoon the following board of directors was elected: John C. Simmons, J. O. Butler, Joseph Dismukes, M. R. Pendleton and S. K. Woodward. Committees on solicitation of funds for improvements reported $500 raised.

The members of the Christian Sunday-school, of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday-school, South, of the Alameda school and of the Old River school, all picnicked in Sycamore Cañon Saturday.

Burrel D. Neighbors was elected by Downey Parlor, N.S.G.W., to represent it in the Grand Parlor, which meets in Vallejo.

COVINA.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED.

COVINA, April 10.—Covina today was the center of interest among the members of the Christian denomination throughout Southern California, and one long to be remembered by local members who dedicated their beautiful new church. The edifice is of the "Old Mission" style of architecture. The auditorium, with a seating capacity of 600, is flooded with soft light from stained-glass windows on all sides, the rostrum is spacious enough to accommodate a choir of sixty voices, and the acoustic properties of the building are excellent.

Representatives were here from nearly all the sister churches of the denomination throughout Los Angeles, Riverside and Orange counties, the building at all the services being crowded to its utmost capacity. The carriages of those from a distance extended in lines from the church two block in every direction. Rev. F. M. Dowling of Pasadena occupied the pulpit both morning and evening. His subject in the morning was the "Transforming Power of the Gospel," taking as his text the words of Paul: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." "What the Christian Church Stands For" was the subject of the evening sermon. Rev. Mr. Dowling has been intimately associated with the work of this denomination in this place for many years, and dedicated seven years ago the small frame church on Badillo street, which the membership has now outgrown, and it was particularly fitting that he should have been chosen on this auspicious occasion.

Tomorrow a ministers' meeting will be held at the church, at which sixty ministers of the Christian denomination have signified their intention to be present. There will be addresses by W. G. Conley, J. R. Shie, J. P. Ralstin, J. O. West, C. C. Chapman and others.

HOUSE-MOVING AT LONG BEACH.

HOVEY PHOTOGRAPHIC SHACK YANKED INTO STREET.

Injunction Issued by Judge York Violated—House-mover McCrany and Attorney Kemp Arrested for Disturbing the Peace—Funeral of Mrs. Ella Lower Sessions.

LONG BEACH, April 10.—Disregarding an injunction made by Judge York the photograph gallery of Guy C. Hovey was moved off disputed ground late last night and today stands in the center of Ocean avenue and a sign, "keep off," is posted on the property from which several cartloads of dirt were removed at midnight to prevent the building being restored to its foundations.

In December last H. O. Schroeter purchased fifty feet on the ocean front between Pine and Locust streets, and let a contract for a $27,000 roominghouse. On the property for three years had stood a frame shack used as a photograph gallery and out of place among the buildings surrounding it. Its owner, Hovey, held a lease which expired in September. He claimed it had been renewed, but could show no papers or proof. Schroeter tried all pacific means to get Hovey to vacate and finally had ejectment papers served on January 12. Constable Lynn went to serve the warrant, but fell a victim to the pleadings and blandishments of Mrs. Hovey, who delayed proceedings until her husband arrived with his attorney. Then Mrs. Hovey turned on the officer and gave him a tongue lashing that made his hair curl. Lynn then removed the household plunder into the street where it remained all night. Next morning Judge York issued a restraining order, stopping further proceedings and Hovey moved back and has since held the fort.

Last night Attorney Kemp of Los Angeles and three county deputies arrived here and stood guard while Housemover McCrany yanked the building into the street. Hovey roused Judge Brayton from his slumbers and had McCrany and Kemp arrested for disturbing the peace, but McCrany's men went ahead with this work and after moving the house excavated enough to prevent its return.

The two men arrested were released on bond. There will be further developments tomorrow morning. When asked his authority for his work, Attorney Kemp said he was acting on his own responsibility. Landlord Schroeter expects to have the basement of his new building well under way by tomorrow evening.

MRS. SESSIONS'S FUNERAL.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church this afternoon over the remains of Mrs. Ella Lower Sessions, who died in Los Angeles Friday. A special car on the Pacific Electric brought the funeral party to Long Beach. The services were conducted by Rev. Leach of Glendora, a former pastor of the deceased, assisted by Rev. W. K. Beans. A number of friends and associates were in attendance, as were also the Ebell and W.C.T.U. societies. Interment was at Signal Hill, where Mrs. Sessions's mother is buried.

OCEAN PARK.

BEGINNING TO GROW UP.

OCEAN PARK, April 10.—Last week witnessed the commencement of work on Ocean Park's first real business blocks. One two-story brick block was built last year, and tomorrow bricklaying will be commenced on two three-story houses, the first of three-story structures here. One of the new hotel, is to cost $20,000, and the other, the Berryman apartment house, will cost $30,000. Two other three-story blocks will be started in a few days on Pier avenue.

During the week the plans were matured for the $100,000 frame hotel building that is to go up on the Ocean Front. M. J. Davis of Salt Lake City is to be the manager, and will put in about half the capital. Members of the Ocean Park Improvement Company are to be heavy stockholders. The hostelry is to have 150 rooms, and the effort will be made to have it ready for dedication by the middle of July. With a frontage of 200 feet, between Navy and Marine streets, it has a depth of 250 feet, extending to Speedway. This is a unique location that will no doubt be confusing to assessors and tax collectors when the hotel is built, because the south end of the block is in the city of Ocean Park, the north end in Santa Monica, while a "devil's lane" between the two cities extends east and west through the middle of the block.

Abner Ross, owner of the Holborow Hotel, was here yesterday, and said he would make expensive improvements to that building and probably extend it through on the north to Kinney street.

SANTA MONICA.

TRAINLOAD OF PIPE.

SANTA MONICA, April 10.—A solid trainload of iron water pipe is en route to Santa Monica from Pueblo, Colo. There are nineteen carloads of it, and its cost is between $20,000 and $30,000. The pipe is to be used in providing Nevada avenue with a new main. There is over a mile of this pipe, and its laying will give employment to a small army of men for several weeks. Larger lateral mains will be put in the connecting alleys wherever deemed necessary.

SEA BREEZES.

The sailing vessel Dudhope from Antwerp has arrived at Port Los Angeles and is anchored just outside.

Mrs. Mary M. Niles Dow, a resident of Santa Monica for twenty years, died at her home here today, at the age of 81 years. She leaves a daughter, Ellen, here. The husband died last year at the age of 90. The funeral will be Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Sayford have returned from Santa Barbara, where they were married, and are at home on Ross avenue.

THERE IS no physician anywhere who employs the same general method of treating men's diseases that I employ. The fact in itself no recommendation of my services. With proof of superiority added it becomes the highest possible recommendation. Results obtained prove all methods. Results prove mine superior beyond all doubt or question. I cure ailments that others never have cured and never can cure by their present forms of treatment. Not only do some treat as I treat, but none cure as I cure.

Weakness, Organic Weakness, Lost Vigor, Contracted Disorders, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Specific Blood Poison, Piles and Stricture are included in the list of ailments I cure.

I offer permanent cures for fair fees, and you can pay when cured

TREATMENT

That Is Thoroughly Reliable—Not Guess Work

I accomplish more in one week than can ever be accomplished by guessing through the mail. My treatment is the most effective and you will see improvement from the first.

Has your trouble become chronic through neglect or improper treatment? Have you failed to effect a cure by home treatment through the mail. The correspondence treatment of many conditions is the direct cause of chronic troubles, due to improper measures, and many are treated for conditions which do not exist.

WEAKNESS

Decline of functional activity, strength and vitality is nearly always traceable to a disturbance in the functions of the reproductive system. Under my treatment functional equilibrium is restored, the nerve irritation reduced, the circulation is increased and strength restored. My cures are absolute and permanent.

CONTRACTED DISEASES

Blood poisons obtained through improper treatment, parasitic, specific or from the direct cause of stricture, blennorrhea and deep-seated inflammation of the urinary tract. Chances are that every case now treated need have been under treatment no less than with the right treatment scientifically applied. I am confident I can treat effects more quickly than any one, and with less pain and inconvenience to patients.

VARICOCELE

My treatment effects a cure in four to six days—and the cure will be PERMANENT. Normal circulation is quickly restored, the veins cease, swelling subsides, the patient's strength and vitality improve immediately.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Blaze in a Cottage.

The overturning of a lamp caused a blaze in the cottage owned and occupied by Mrs. M. Sherwood at No. 2507 Marmion Way, yesterday afternoon. The loss was $150, covered by insurance.

High Chief Ranger.

Hon. R. S. Wirsching, High Chief Ranger of the California jurisdiction, Independent Order of Foresters, has gone to the San Joaquin Valley to make the annual inspection of the courts in that district. He will return to Los Angeles April 20.

Madame Schumann-Heink.

Tomorrow night at the Simpson Auditorium Mme. Schumann-Heink will appear for the first time in this city in concert. This morning at the Union Pacific ticket office over four hundred of the cheaper seats will be placed on sale. The programme is a series of gems of composition.

Hindoo Philosophy.

Swami Trigunatita delivered the second of his course of lectures on Hindoo philosophy yesterday afternoon in Camera Hall. The subject was "What is Christ?" and he took the position that until a man transcends his human nature he cannot know the complete and perfect Christ.

Mary Mannering.

Tonight at the Mason Operahouse Mary Mannering will present for the first time in this city the new and successful comedy, "Harriett's Honeymoon." Miss Mannering is not only one of the most beautiful women of the stage, but she is generally conceded to be one of the most talented actresses now before the public.

Pharmacy Afire.

A fire which appeared to be of incendiary origin occurred in Heinseman's Pharmacy, at the corner of Ninth and Main streets, at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Smoke was discovered issuing from the basement, and the fire proved to be in a pile of rubbish. The blaze was extinguished before the department arrived. Damage trivial.

Robbed by Pickpocket.

A. W. Verde of No. 546 Gallardo street was seated at a table at the Imperial Café last night with two other men whom he did not know. They engaged him in conversation and when they started to leave one of them stumbled and almost fell upon Verde. He thought nothing of the incident and accepted the man's apology, but a few minutes later he discovered that his gold watch and chain had been neatly abstracted from his vest.

First Church Jubilee.

There is to be a jubilee service at the First Methodist Church next Sunday morning to celebrate the payment of all debt on the church property and also to commemorate the fourth anniversary of entering the present building. Several former pastors will take part in the ceremonies. Eight children were baptised by Rev. Dr. McIntyre yesterday morning, and thirteen persons were taken into full membership.

Tyndall on Success.

Dr. Alexander J. McIvor-Tyndall lectured yesterday afternoon in Blanchard Hall on "Success." He spoke of two ideals of success, which he designated as "literal" success and "ethical" success, saying that the satisfactory conclusion of any self-appointed task may be considered as literal success, but that, ethically speaking, success must include happiness, growth in wisdom and the development of character. He will speak next Sunday afternoon on "Hypnotism, Good and Bad."

Suspected Theft.

Fremont Cupp and Eugene Patterson were arrested yesterday by Patrolmen Walker and Craig, and booked at the Police Station as suspects. They are supposed to have been implicated in the theft of two Panama hats from a West Fourth-street store Saturday afternoon. The hats have been recovered, and the officers believe they can prove that the two prisoners either committed the theft or assisted the young man who did the stealing, and who escaped after having been chased several blocks.

Frightened by Auto.

Sylvester Aguilas, a laborer in the employ of Ramish & Marsh, was severely injured in a runaway accident on Temple street yesterday afternoon. Aguilas was driving a grading team, when an automobile frightened the horses. They ran down the steep hill on Temple street, and in attempting to turn into Fremont, the wagon crashed into another, throwing Aguilas out and cutting his left leg. The man sustained other painful bruises, and he was removed to the Receiving Hospital. The damage to the team and wagons was slight.

Plate Glass Smashed.

John Murray, a customer, and N. Andrea, proprietor of the Merchants' restaurant on North Spring street, engaged in an altercation yesterday morning, which came near wrecking the place of business. Incidentally A. St. Branch, the chef, was brought in and there was a running fight, which attracted a large crowd. Murray and Andrea had a misunderstanding about the price of a breakfast, and in order to convince the customer that he was in the "right," Andrea started in with a right swing, but missing his man, the plate-glass window was shattered, and both men were cut by falling glass. Out on the street the fight was continued until stopped by Officer Walsh. All of the parties were arrested, but subsequently released on bail.

Robbed by Choloa.

A Chinaman named Ung Ling, who drives a vegetable wagon and lives at the Chinese gardens south of the city below Vernon, was held up and robbed by two Mexicans Friday night near the crossing of Central avenue and the Santa Fé Railroad. He was driving homeward when the Mexicans demanded that he permit them to ride. He refused, and they stopped his horse, and climbing into the wagon, told him to give them his money. He gave them about $3, but retained $20 which he had secreted in his blouse. The robbers then ordered him to drive on, which he did, and when he reached his home he was afraid to return to the city and report the robbery. It was not reported until yesterday, when Ling told other Chinese of the matter, and they directed him to the authorities.

"MUSIC HATH CHARMS."

Old Circus People Know it and it Has Considerable to do With Trick Acts.

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast" runs the old verse. In the circus line this is particularly true. Every bit of the music played during an exhibition of the Otto Floto shows was chosen with the greatest care and its especial fitness for the accompanying act.

For instance, when the herds of elephants are in the rings going through their various difficult feats, the band plays heavy, sonorous music, music that is almost Wagnerian in its massiveness of conception. The intelligent pachyderms seems to work best under the fascinating influence of such music. Now and then when the elephant has been trained to do tricks and clown certain acts he is given lighter music.

Horses seem to be especially susceptible to music, and not only in the circus arena, but on the streets. Often an old cart horse will prick up his ears and almost prance when he hears the inspiring strains of some exhilarating march. Circus horses who naturally possess a high order of intelligence, are quick to note the slightest change in music. For instance, if a well-trained circus horse, such as Miss Nellie Carroll and John Carroll ride in their menage acts, is doing a waltz he will instantly chance to the "hootchecoochie" if he hears the music of that dance. Indeed, the music is the key. Occasionally the attention of an animal will become distracted by something in one of the arenas, and he will hesitate. But it is usually for only a moment. A gentle word of admonition or a slight touch of the whip will quickly recall him to his senses.

Mules, while not as sentimental as educated horses, are not impervious to the effects of music. The Otto Floto show is, perhaps, the only tented exhibition in the world today that uses trained mules for ring acts. Seals also show the effects of music. When the music is slow they work dully, but when it is lively they go through their various feats with animation.

The effect of music on circus animals is particularly interesting because of the attractiveness of environment and the attendant excitement, as will be noted at the coming exhibitions of the Otto Floto show in his city.
